GERMAN LINE SAGGING BACK TO ROER RIVER

PARIS, Nov. 30 (U.P.) — American first and ninth armies captured Lamersdorf and Grosshau and hammered the Germans back through the streets of four other villages in savage fighting along a 21-mile front on the muddy plains before Cologne and Dusseldorf today.

The German line is sagging back toward the Roer river along the entire sector beyond Aachen despite fanatical resistance by Germany's best troops under orders to "stand or die."

Germany is throwing her choicest reserves into action in the west to replace an estimated 100,000 killed, wounded or captured in the first three weeks of the allied "victory" offensive along a 400-mile front from Holland to the Swiss border.

Patton Matches Gains

Matching the American gains in the north, Lieut.-Gen. George S. Patton's American third army advanced up to a mile and a half deeper into Germany's Saar basin and seized high ground within two miles of both Merzig and Saarlautern, Siegfried line strongholds on the Saar river.

Sixth army group forces in the south drove 14 miles south of Strasbourg along the Rhine river highway toward Colmar to tighten their ham-shaped trap around 20,000 to 50,000 troops in Alsace.

Lieut.-Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' first army doughboys on the Cologne plain captured Grosshau, five miles southwest of the Rhine river stronghold of Duren, and Lamersdorf, five miles northwest of Duren, and pressed on toward the Roer river.

Blow up Bridges

The Germans yielded Lamersdorf and withdrew across the Inde river, blowing up the bridge behind them, only after contesting every yard of ground from barricaded houses and cellars. Lamersdorf lies 23 miles southwest of Cologne.

First army forces also were fighting inside Merode, three and a half miles west of Duren, against German paratroops resisting tenaciously from house to house with intense small arms fire. South of Merode, the Germans were exploiting prepared positions in wooded hills to cover a slow withdrawal.

ELLIOTT WEDDING DATE UNCERTAIN

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., Nov. 30 (AP)—Just when and where Col. Elliott Roosevelt will marry movie actress Faye Emerson was a secret all their own today.

The President's 34-year-old second son told reporters yesterday: "All I can say is that we'll be married before I go overseas again, and that'll be darn soon." And the vivacious blond Miss Emerson, 27, of Elizabeth, La., said:

"We plan to be married within the week, but we don't know exactly when."

It will be the third marriage for Roosevelt, the second for Miss Emerson. She was divorced in 1942 from William Wallace Crawford, jr., by whom she has a son, William Wallace Crawford, 3rd, 5.

Miss Emerson entered movies in 1941 after working in Little Theaters.

She has appeared in such pictures as "Desert Song," "Destination Tokyo," and "Hollywood Canteen."

Roosevelt was divorced from Elizabeth Donner Roosevelt, by whom he had a son, and from Ruth Googins Roosevelt, who has custody of their three children.

He is on leave from the army air forces after commanding the allied photographic service in Africa and Sicily.

Reich Receiving No Bomb Letup

LONDON, Nov. 30 (U.P.)—An hour-long procession of allied heavy bombers swept east toward Germany today to continue the non-stop aerial offensive carried through the night by Mosquito bombers which made a concentrated attack on Hannover.

Three strong formations of bombers flew out from British bases. Two were seen over the east coast and one over the southwest coast.

Other British planes laid mines in enemy waters and attacked German air fields. All the night raiders returned safely.

Former Resident Killed in Action

JEROME, Nov. 30—Harold Joseph Marchall, 20, nephew of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Barga, Jerome, was killed in action Nov. 5 in Holland, according to word received here by his aunt and uncle.

A former Twin Falls student, he would have been 21 years old had he lived until Tuesday of this week. He was a member of the ninth division of the U. S. army and had been in service nearly two years. His rank was understood to be private first class or corporal.

He was born Nov. 28, 1923 at Versailles, O., and was a former student at St. Edward's parochial school, Twin Falls.

His father, the late Lawrence Marchall, died in Twin Falls in 1936. The youth's mother lives at Versailles, as do his two sisters, Mary Jane and Josie.

DWORSHAK TOLD: 'MORE MEXICANS'

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30 (AP)—Rep. Cannon, D., Mo., chairman of the deficiency appropriations sub-committee, has assured a group of western congressmen, including Rep. Dworshak, R., Ida., that the 1944 program for importing Mexican nationals for farm labor will be continued next year.

Dworshak and others told the committee that beet farmers are insisting on the continued use of Mexican nationals, along with prisoners of war.

Knowledge of the government's intention, they stated, is necessary in planning next year's plantings.

Last of the Mexican national farm workers in this section of Idaho will entrain for their homeland probably Dec. 2, Rulon Moss, manager of the farm labor camp here, said that the departure is awaiting assignment of railroad transportation.

Short Strike Ended By Zinc Workers

TOOELE, Utah, Nov. 30 (AP)—Lead and zinc workers have returned to their jobs after a two-day partial shutdown of the International Smelting and Refining company plant in a dispute involving a non-union worker.

J. Frank Marble, president-secretary of district two, International Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (CIO) said union members refused to work because a non-union man had said he never would join the union. He reminded employes of the CIO's no-strike pledge, renewed at its convention last week.

The Salt Lake Tribune said the employe, Warren Sparks, resigned his seven-month job and left Tooele, accompanied by his wife, who resigned a war job at Tooele ordnance plant.

Chiang-Wife Rift Tale Gets Denial

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30 (AP)—The Chinese embassy today described as "entirely false" reports that Generalissimo and Madame Chiang Kai-shek have separated and that she will live in Miami.

The report was published by the London Daily Mail. A statement issued by the Chinese news service quoted the spokesman of the Chinese embassy as denying the report. Madame Chiang is now in the United States receiving medical treatment.

Blazing Broom Saves Lives, Balking Plane-Train Crash

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Nov. 30 (AP)—A dramatic escape from death right out of an old time serial thriller occurred when a Flying Fortress crash landed on the Southern railway tracks as a speeding passenger train rounded the bend.

Fast thinking by Peggy Parsley, airlines employe, averted a collision. No one on train or plane was injured.

Five members of the Fortress crew were trapped in the plane when Mrs. Parsley heard the whistle of the approaching train. She dashed into a guardhouse at Douglas airport, grabbed a house broom, lighted it at a stove and ran with the blazing torch through rain and fog. At the tracks a section hand used the broom to signal the train to a halt.

J. C. Milton, engineer, said:

"When the train stopped there wasn't room for the thickness of my finger between my train and that plane."

CHURCHILL SAYS LEND-LEASE WILL BE CUT IN HALF

LONDON, Nov. 30 (AP) — Prime Minister Churchill revealed today a far-reaching British-American trade arrangement whereby, after defeat of Germany, lend-lease would be cut nearly in half, but Britain would pay cash for American materials intended for eventual re-export from England.

Hammering home Britain's necessity for, and intention of, rebuilding her largely-vanished export trade, the prime minister told commons "it is no part of the lend-lease act to provide general relief, provide for postwar reconstruction or aid our export trade.

"We shall pay cash for any additional supplies we may wish to take from the United States for export purposes."

He added that the removal of uncertainties should make it possible for exporters to lay plans now "with assurance" that they could become effective after the war with Germany ends.

Churchill said also that his statement had been agreed to "almost sentence by sentence by our American colleagues," adding:

"Never has there been a more thorough understanding of the facts of the economic position and the problems of Great Britain and the United States of America on both sides than we have now been able to reach," Churchill said.

SHIPMENTS TO STOP

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30 (AP)—The United States plans to halt lend-lease shipments of iron and steel to Britain Jan. 1. This means a drastic downward revision of the war aid program for 1945.

It was announced officially today in a statement summing up British-American lend-lease conferences just concluded here. They resulted in a $5,600,000,000 program for shipments to Britain during 1945—a cut of almost 50 per cent under comparable figures for this year.

ABSENT

TWENTY-FOURTH DIVISION LEYTE, Philippines, Nov. 30—Hungry, hard-fighting Yanks finished their two-day fighting, thankful even for K-rations. But Filipino farmer-guerilla fighters found them, produced everything from roast chicken to peanuts. In turn, the soldiers shook their pockets inside out, even giving away scarce cigarettes. But no one had the love story magazine which a comely Filipino girl bashfully requested.

RIP

BELLINGHAM, Wash., Nov. 30—Frank Slater went to a show. Like Rip Van Winkle, he came home to find his family gone, the town changed: Thirty-five years had elapsed, Slater explained, since he met a friend and accompanied him to Portland, Ore., to become a merchant seaman.

QUESTION?

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 30—Charles M. Blackmar asked the war labor board if a business man could give his employes turkeys for Christmas gifts.

"Such turkeys cannot be given unless the same has been done before," was the answer.

"Isn't there a first time for everything?" Blackmar asked.

"That is a question we cannot answer now," a clerk replied.

Presiding Judge in Sedition Case Dies

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30 (AP) — Death during the night of presiding Justice Edward C. Eicher today apparently had ended the seven-month-old mass sedition trial in federal district court.

Eicher, 65-year-old former Iowa congressman, died in his home in nearby Alexandria, Va.

A justice department official said the death would mean the trial would have to be terminated and the hearing started all over again.

The 27 defendants are accused of conspiring to disaffect the loyalty of American armed forces and to set up a nazi form of government in this country.

Mexican Woman, 88, Has Her 15th Child

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 30 (U.P.) — The newspaper El Universal received a dispatch from its Guaymas (Sonora state) correspondent today saying he had just received a newspaper from Ciudad Obregon revealing the extraordinary case of an 88-year-old woman of that city who gave birth to a robust baby boy Nov. 20.

He quoted the newspaper as reporting that the husband of the mother is 58, and the couple has 15 other children.

CONSCRIPT RIOTS UNNERVE CANADA

OTTAWA, Nov. 30 (AP)—The parliamentary phase of Canada's conscription crisis approached solution today, with Prime Minister King's government apparently saved from overthrow, but rebellious draftee troops resisting dispatch to the western front kept the nation tense.

The King regime appeared definitely out of danger of defeat after the former defense minister, Col. R. L. Ralston, told parliament he would support a motion of confidence.

Late last night youths left a nationalist party bloc populaire meeting in Montreal and smashed windows in the building of the newspaper "Le Canadan a French-language publication which is official organ of Prime Minister King's liberal party and which has lent support to the government's conscription policy.

Other disturbances have occurred throughout Quebec, where the French-speaking population still holds as a group that it has the right to decline to fight overseas.

Of grave immediate concern was the tense situation in half a dozen draftee camps in British Columbia.

AGAIN THEY ASK U. S. FOR LOANS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30 (AP) — Dean Acheson, assistant secretary of state, disclosed today that the United States already has received requests for loans from several foreign governments. He proposes expanding the credit facilities of the export-import bank to handle them.

Acheson also urged on the house trade subcommittee postwar economic repeal of the Johnson act which prohibits private lending to governments in default on American loans. He described the act as "a barrier to American participation in the rehabilitation of international trade."

Robber Hides Pistol Under Baby's Dress

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 30 (AP)—A robber who carried a four-year-old child with a pistol concealed beneath its clothing today held up the Wilshire-Beverly branch of the California bank and escaped with about $3,000.

"Give me $3,000 quick and don't notify anyone or you and the baby will both die," read a note the robber handed J. J. Murray, assistant manager.

Murray complied and the robber escaped in an automobile driven by a woman.

Potato Black Market Injures Dealers Here

IMPORTS MENACE AMERICAN WOOL

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30 (AP)—J. M. Jones of Salt Lake City predicted that foreign wool supplies in this country may reach a new high by the end of the year.

Jones, secretary of the National Woolgrowers association, estimated that 1944 imports [illegible] 000,000 pounds in [illegible] wool stockpile, but [illegible] is being made to do [illegible] it.

Jones said the government, through the commodity credit corporation, will buy the 1945 domestic wool clip as it has the clips of this year and last but the market is still threatened by the foreign stockpile, imports and the domestic wool still in the hands of the government.

Must Do Something

"There's got to be something done, either to control imports or to permit sale of domestic wool at lower prices," Jones said.

"We're not able to control the imports so we are working on plans to get the surplus off so it won't hurt the grower too much."

Jones said he heard that the British government was selling France about 140,000,000 pounds of wool and that perhaps half of that amount would be taken from the approximately 470,000,000 pounds stored in this country. But, he added:

"Foreign wools available for manufacture in this country are greater than ever before in history."

Using Foreign Product

He said most civilian requirements are being met out of foreign wool and the navy still is using considerable foreign wool. The army, he said, is utilizing more domestic wool.

Jones estimated that the 1945 domestic clip would not be more than 320,000,000 pounds, which would be 40,000,000 or 50,000,000 pounds less than the 1944 clip, but he said the agriculture department estimated the 1945 clip at 355,000,000 pounds.

The domestic stockpile, he said, is about 147,000,000 pounds.

Local dealers in potatoes are being forced out of business because brokers from the midwest are buying—and local growers are selling—for 25 to 30 cents above ceiling prices for 100 pound sacks, a survey of Twin Falls dealers revealed today.

Buyers from Chicago and Kansas City are paying the higher rates in an effort to keep their customers supplied and in order to maintain a potato black market in areas where scarcity exists, one dealer re- [illegible] average rate at well above $3 for the latter grade.

Unable to Pay Prices

For several weeks the price above the ceiling has gradually inched up to a point where the dealers who supply the local markets are unable to pay the prices and resell the potatoes at a profit, several of them explained to a Times-News reporter in one of the local produce houses.

They said the midwestern brokers can afford to pay the extra amounts because they can dispose of the potatoes on the black market.

One dealer was of the opinion that growers in this area are not fully aware that they are breaking an OPA regulation which says that "no person shall sell or deliver and no person, in the course of trade or business, shall buy or receive potatoes and onions at prices higher than the maximum prices established by this regulation, and no person shall agree, offer, solicit, or attempt to do any of the foregoing."

Variations Allowed

Although variations in prices are allowed according to the conditions of sale, dealers here said that the bulk of the sales at the present time is illegal. According to the OPA regulation quoted above, both

May File Suits

According to E. S. Harper, Twin Falls dealer who conferred by telephone with a state OPA legal adviser Wednesday, the Boise agency is calling investigators from the Salt Lake City office and the Denver regional office to check on reports of over-ceiling potato sales.

If the conditions as dealers here report them do exist, suits will be filed within a week, the attorney advised Harper.

"We are definitely going to be forced out of business if the OPA does not take action," Harper said.

He Hopes to Bomb Berlin on Birthday

LONDON, Nov. 30 (AP) — Capt. Dick Grace, former Hollywood stunt pilot who estimates he has flown 18,000 hours, says he hopes to celebrate his 47th birthday in January on a bomb dropping mission over Berlin—an opportunity for which he has waited since 1918.

Grace cracked up planes in such war films as "Wings" and "Hell's Angels"—pictures which held most of the pilots of today spell-bound when they were children.

He has made 47 plane crashes in the movies and has suffered 81 fractures, including a broken neck.

On one of his 12 missions in the European theater as pilot of a Flying Fortress he recently bombed the German island fortress of Heligoland. As a lieutenant in the navy air arm in 1918, Grace bombed this same target in a Spad, which carried three 100-pound fragmentation bombs. Later he planned to bomb Berlin, but received orders not to attempt it.

Tokyo Jars Under Yank Night Blast

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30 (U.P.) — Giant American Superfortresses, carrying out their first night raid on Japan's teeming capital despite unfavorable weather, bombed "industrial targets" in Tokyo last night and completed the 3,100 mile round trip to their Saipan bases without loss to enemy action, the war department announced today.

The Japanese radio admitted that "fires raged uncontrolled" for nearly an hour after the last of the big four-engined B-29s had left from the third attack on Tokyo within six days.

Tokyo's antiaircraft defenses put up only "meager and inaccurate resistance," the communique said, and "none of our aircraft was lost from enemy action."

It was both the first night mission for Brig. Gen. H. S. Hansell's Saipan-based 21st bomber command and the first night attack ever staged on Tokyo, the world's third largest city and site of some of Japan's most vital war plants. The communique did not identify the exact targets, saying only that "industrial targets" were hit.

The frankest Japanese communique yet issued on the results of a Superfortress attack said fires "that continued to rage in part of the areas affected . . . were put under control by 5:30 a. m.," but insisted that no damage had been caused to "important installations."

Radio Tokyo reported that waves of B-29s, hitting by night for the first time, thundered over the capital dropping demolition and incendiary bombs from 11:50 p. m. to 2 a. m. (10:50 a. m. to 1 p. m. Wednesday, EWT), then returned for a second attack from 4:15 a. m. to between 4:30 and 5 a. m.

A German Transocean dispatch from Tokyo said that the situation had forced authorities to close the city's schools at 11 a. m. daily and quoted Premier Gen. Kuniaki Koiso as appealing to the population for "energetic cooperation to put out [illegible]

Would-be Customer Sells Clerk Fags

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 30 (U.P.)—After turning away hundreds of customers, Audrey Lockhart, cigarette girl in Leland hotel lobby, was asked by a customer:

"Haven't you any cigarettes for yourself?"

When she said no, the customer dug deep into his overcoat and drew forth a pack.

"Here, I'll sell you these," he said.

She bought them.

SOUTH HUNGARY OVERRUN BY REDS

LONDON, Nov. 30 (U.P.)—A rampaging red army burst across the Danube in great strength and fanned out through southern Hungary on a broad front today in a fast-breaking offensive that carried to within 50 miles or less of lake Balaton, historic invasion gate to Austria.

Riddling through the German Hungarian defenses at a mile-an-hour clip, the hard-charging Soviets captured the fortress city of Pecs, 108 miles south-southwest of [illegible] Danube into Yugoslavia.

A triumphant Moscow communique revealed that the Russians were pushing out to the west and northwest at top speed, raising the double threat of an invasion drive to the Austrian border, barely 100 miles away, as well as an enveloping thrust around the southern flank of Budapest.

Stalin disclosed that the forces in Hungary have been joined by a Yugoslav partisan army corps.

Lid on Soldier Cigarettes off

LONDON, Nov. 30 (AP)—Noncombatant United States soldiers, who have puffed expensive English cigarettes the past 10 days, will be allowed two packages a week of their favorite American brands, starting next Monday.

The army announced tonight that personnel authorized to make purchases in the exchanges may buy two packs, or five cigars, or two packages of pipe tobacco per week.

Airforce combat personnel, hospital patients, airborne units returning from operations or training, and personnel attached to anti-aircraft units will be allowed five packs of cigarettes a week, as a present.

The sale of cigarettes to noncombatants was stopped 10 days ago, which raised a storm of protest.

Nations League Plans New World Agency

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30 (AP) — League of Nations officials have scheduled a meeting in London in the next few days to figure how to clear legal ground for a new world peace agency.

Although the league became generally inactive after the present war started, its foundations of treaties, obligations and assets remain.

The special meeting will be that of a supervisory commission set up when the war began with emergency powers to handle all league business. Chairman Carl J. Hambro of Norway, called the meeting. More than 400 treaties have reference to the league.

MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Philippines, Nov. 30 (AP) — Slashing American fighter planes sank 10 Japanese transports and three destroyers, with at least 4,000 reinforcements aboard, in a blistering Tuesday-Wednesday battle which crippled an apparent nipponese effort to land a full new division on Leyte island.

The latest strike pushed to 21,000 the Japanese death toll for reinforcements who failed to reach port, but some fresh troops evidently slipped ashore to join the rain-swept battle of Ormoc corridor.

Explosion Blasts Dynamite Shack

With a muffled roar the shack in Rock creek canyon which housed a construction company's dynamite and percussion caps exploded Wednesday afternoon.

No one was near the small building at the time but witnesses from some distance away said the blast followed a small fire which broke out in the shack.

A Utah firm, the construction company has been blasting a tunnel for the Twin Falls Canal company in the vicinity of the city dump grounds.

Errol Flynn Agrees To Clear Tax Debt

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 30 (AP)—Actor Errol Flynn agreed in court today, through his attorney, to pay income taxes for 1942 and 1943 on the $1,500 monthly alimony received by Lili Damita, his former wife.

Bernard Silbert, his attorney, said Flynn would make a $4,000 payment immediately on the $11,336 amount, and would furnish $1,000 weekly until the debt is cleared, whereupon a contempt citation against him would be dismissed.

CHURCHILL 70 TODAY

LONDON, Nov. 30 (U.P.)—Britain's No. 1 warrior, prime minister Winston Churchill, observed his 70th birthday today far healthier and happier than on that gloomy day in 1940 when he took the leadership of his country to start it on the road to victory.

Wife Ponders on Acceptance Of "Other Woman's" Baby

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 30 (U.P.) — Pfc. Arthur E. Whitehouse, 30, was home today with the laughing baby a Newfoundland nurse bore him, but it was not certain that his wife, childless in their nine years of marriage, would accept the child as its father.

HOLIDAY FINDS 4 KEVANS AT WAR

Four of the five sons of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Kevan were missing from the family home on Thanksgiving day, because they have important dates to keep with Uncle Sam's armed forces.

The fifth son, Richard Kevan, has been deferred by the county draft board to assist on the Kevan farm, producing food for victory. All of his four brothers enlisted in the service, two leaving shortly after Pearl Harbor.

The eldest Kevan boy, First Lieut. Charles Wayne Kevan, who returned to the United States last spring after fulfilling 50 missions in Italy, Africa and over Germany, now is stationed at Buckley field, Denver, Colo., but expects to be called to active duty soon.

First Lieut. William E. Kevan, pilot on a C-54, hospital ship, with base at Hamilton field, San Francisco, has flown the wounded to hospitals from all parts of the south Pacific, including Saipan.

A third son, Pfc. Robert Kevan, who left this week for Pendleton field, Calif., following a furlough visit with his parents, has five major battle stars and two presidential citations. He went on Tarawa with the first wave of U. S. marines, and participated in the Guadalcanal, Tulagi, Saipan and Guam engagements. His presidential citations were awarded for participation in the Guadalcanal and Tarawa campaigns.

Sgt. James Kevan, now serving in the south Pacific with the marine air corps, has been in service since Jan. 23, 1943. Lieuts. Wayne and William Kevan enlisted Dec. 19, 1941 and Private Kevan on Jan. 5, 1942.

Rites Conducted For Bothne Baby

Funeral services for William Lane Bothne, nine-weeks-old son of Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Bothne, Twin Falls, were to be held at 3 p. m. Thursday at the Reynolds funeral home chapel, with the Rev. Father Donald W. Simmons, assistant pastor of St. Edward's Catholic church, officiating. Burial will be in Twin Falls cemetery.

WIFE DUBIOUS ON ACCEPTING BABY

(From Page One)

Mrs. Whitehouse's family said she had not made up her mind about the matter.

The paternal grandmother said it didn't matter because she intended to quit her job in a war plant to take care of the child.

Whitehouse, husky and rather handsome, who proposed to his wife while she was a salesgirl, was sent to Newfoundland in 1942. He said his attachment for the nurse was nothing, "only an affair" growing out of the monotony of inactivity, until he learned she was to have a baby. Then he wanted to do the right thing, he said.

"She didn't want the baby, and she didn't want me," Whitehouse said.

Officers Discuss License Revision

Revision of the requirements for issuance of Idaho drivers' licenses and the granting of railroad passes to law enforcement officials were discussed by members of the Magic Valley Officers association during their Wednesday night meeting at Rupert, Sheriff W. W. Lowery, president, said Thursday.

The group approved legislation pending for changing requirements for operation of vehicles when the legislature next convenes. They also favored relaxing restrictions which prevent peace officers from obtaining railroad passes.

Recent criminal violations in this area were analyzed by the officers and information on unapprehended criminals was exchanged. The meeting was well attended, Sheriff Lowery said.

BEAUTIFUL LEGS AT GARDEN SHOW

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30 (U.P.) — Consider yourself led by the hand today, past pictures of tomato-plucking ladies with beautiful legs and into the fern-banked auditorium of the agriculture department.

The ferns were woodwardias and Boston, interspersed with palms in pots, lent for the occasion by the United States botanical gardens. The beautiful Blue Danube, as recorded by a symphony orchestra, wafted through the departmental loudspeakers.

A man rapped for order. The Danube ceased to flow and you know what? The national victory garden conference was in session. Figuring out a way to plow up more back lots. To grow more snap beans. To can more parsnips.

If you think this isn't serious business, you're no victory gardener. The man with the gavel turned out to be Gov. Prentice Cooper of Tennessee, president of the national victory garden institute and proprietor of the finest victory garden in Nashville.

What this country needs is more city folks with hoes and some experts to show them how to hoe, the governor said. If the conference succeeds only in talking the agriculture department into assigning extension agents to cities for the giving of advice to back yard plowmen, he said, it will be a success.

The 112 delegates, consisting of garden experts, garden editors and gardeners, applauded. Then they started adopting resolutions, about which more later, and I went outside for a closer look at that agriculture department leg art. Just like Hollywod.

One of the photos showed a brunet beauty in shorts, harvesting her tomato crop. Another was titled, "cutting a well-developed head of broccoli." The third was called "cabbages and queens," the queen wearing overalls and holding in either hand a head of you-know-what.

'Ghost of Guam' Bobs Up in a Divorce Suit

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Nov. 30 (AP)—George Ray Tweed, 45, navy radioman rescued from Guam last July after eluding the Japanese there for 31 months, today was ordered by Judge Weinberger to pay his wife $80 a month for support of herself and son, pending a hearing on Mrs. Tweed's cross-camplaint for divorce.

Mrs. Tweed contends she should share in $250,000 Tweed may receive from film and book rights to his "Ghost of Guam" experiences.

OLMSTEAD BACK FROM WAR AREA

Lieut.-Col. Ralph W. (Red) Olmstead, supply officer of the war food administration, and subject of a feature story which appeared recently in the Times-News, has just returned from a trip to Europe, according to word received here.

In reply to a letter from Mrs. Nellie Ormsby, mother of Ralph Ormsby, one of his high school and university chums, in which she enclosed the clipping from the local newspaper, Olmstead wrote:

"I returned Oct. 30 from a two month's trip to England, France and Russia. It was informative, although it got a little rugged at times."

He expressed thanks for the clipping, and said: "The people around the office got quite a kick out of the story."

The item called attention to an article on Olmstead, which appeared in the "Interesting People" section of the December issue of the American magazine, and referred to his antics as a yell leader in high school here in the '20s. The American magazine hailed Olmstead as "the autocrat of your breakfast table."

ORDERED OUT OF TOWN

John D. Roe, Twin Falls, arrested late Thursday and charged with drunkenness, was ordered out of town late yesterday when he appeared before Municipal Judge J. O. Pumphrey.

Petitions Filed in Two Estates Here

A petition for letters of administration was filed yesterday in probate court by Maude B. Dygert, Twin Falls, in the matter of the estate of J. A. Dygert, who died Nov. 19, 1944, near Union, Ore.

Sole heir in the estate is the widow, Maude B. Dygert. The estate consisting of one lot in Twin Falls and two lots in Blue Lakes addition is valued at approximately $16,500.

Frank Stephan, Twin Falls, is attorney for the plaintiff.

Hearing of the petition was scheduled by Probate Judge C. A. Bailey, Dec. 11.

A petition for letters of administration also was filed in probate court by Teresa Inchausti, Buhl, in the matter of the estate of Pedro Inchausti, who died Sept. 29, 1932.

The estate, valued at approximately $10,000, consists of two lots in Twin Falls and 120 shares of capital stock in the Twin Falls Canal company.

Heirs listed in the petition are: Teresa Jesses Inchausti, son, Buhl; Mary Leaper, daughter, Castleford; Josephine Wavara, daughter, Castleford; Pedro Inchausti, son, Buhl; Antonia Inchausti, son, Castleford.

J. H. Sherley, Buhl, is attorney for the petitioner.

Farm Implement Suit Dismissed

Suit brought by the Mountain States Implement company against L. L. Peterson, Twin Falls, was dismissed in district court at the request of the plaintiff's attorneys, Chapman and Chapman, Twin Falls, and Thatcher and Young, Ogden, Utah.

In the original complaint, the plaintiff requested $391.20, plus cost of action, for the unpaid sale of a used tractor, a used cream separator, a used plow, and a used harrow.

Of 116 localities covered by a war manpower commission survey, 69 blamed lack of child care services for their inability to hold workers, WMC reported.

THANKGIVING PRAYER

Weep not, when you bless this day
Pray the futile void of longing
And the wish for things belonging
To another year cannot make you say
"I wish he were here."

Almighty God! We beseech Thee on this day to deal kindly with our beloved sons and daughters who will see the dawn of Thanksgiving in distant places.

We ask Thee to protect them, not alone from death but from the inner recoil of their souls from what they will believe to be the hollow mockery of the day.

Let this day be Holy with the benediction of Your love; let each son who has gone from a home in Magic Valley—and from every other home throughout the land—find some small surcease from the agonies and dreadful fears of battle in the knowledge that he must be stern, even on this day, with the men who have sought to erase Your teachings from the scroll of the ages; let him shower his justifiable wrath upon Your enemies, as did Your Only Son when He drove the money changers from the temple.

Almighty God! Temper the hate in our sons' hearts with recollections of home, not to weaken their offence but to strengthen their belief in righteousness.

Lessen the cost of victory, oh, God, but do not hasten peace if it shall give us nothing but empty sacrifice.

Lighten the hearts of those who look upon empty chairs this day; give them the knowledge that their emptiness is but an interlude, that soon all men shall praise You with another sort of thanksgiving.

Almighty God! Let your snows fall upon a land deep in peace. But give us endless powers with which to forever guard the peace which our hearts will find so costly.

Amen.

TIME TO THANK—AND THANK!

For a lot of us here at home, Thanksgiving may bring an uneasy, even a guilty feeling. Somehow we are too well fed, too warm and clean and comfortable. These are things to be thankful for, surely, but they put us too much apart from sons and husbands and brothers and friends in all parts of the world who are celebrating Thanksgiving without them.

And these are things that make us too remote from the spirit of the first Thanksgiving. That was a spirit of humble gratitude in people who had fought and suffered in an alien, unfriendly land to reap the meager bounty for which they offered their thanks. It may seem today that the bounty is being won for us by men who still fight and suffer while we keep a holiday, and that this occasion is more properly one of fasting than feasting.

But those feelings are probably wrong. We may well be humble and grateful. Yet there is no need to think that our customary holiday will be looked upon with bitterness by the men who fight our battles overseas.

Millions of homesick kids are going to be thinking of that holiday, of the family dinner table, and the food that is on it, and the people that are around it, and to them Thanksgiving itself may seem like something to be thankful for. They will be glad to know that it is just as it was, and they won't wish it any different. It's part of a country and a life to fight for and come home to.

WILLFUL MEN

"The German has to be hit with everything we've got. . . . I want more supplies than we are getting. . . . To get peace we've got to fight like hell for it." Thus spoke General Eisenhower. And even as he was speaking, east coast truckmen were saying that cannon, rifles and bayonets—supplies that the general wants—were being held back from ports of embarkation.

Why the tieup? Because of a truckers' strike in Boston. And why were they striking? Because of a squabble within the union over an election of officers.

Thus a "little group of willful men" can delay victory and cost lives. Incidentally, they can also give responsible labor a black eye. And for that reason, if no other, it would seem appropriate that the AFL Teamsters' union, to which the truckers belong, follow the example of the CIO Auto Workers' union and at least threaten union discipline of the parties to such costly and, under the circumstances, reprehensible disputes.

GRACIOUS!

In answer to an anxious inquiry from a group of California ministers, President Roosevelt has pleaded guilty to uttering one mild cuss word in public on Nov. 7 when he couldn't get a voting machine to work.

It is probably well that these same reverend gentlemen do not know of some of the words used by the President's political opponents when they learned how regularly a great many voters were hitting the Roosevelt jackpot on those same machines.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

(Ray Tucker is on vacation. During his absence Albert Leman, his New York associate will write in Washington.)

* * *

CRISIS—Charges are flying around in respect to shortages in tanks, air-borne radar, heavy trucks and tires, artillery and ammunition, cotton duck, field wire and other critical items urgently needed at the fronts.

As a result, the administration is quietly conducting a searching survey of the problem and will soon issue a comprehensive report to clarify the situation.

Albert Leman

J. A. Krug, chairman of the war production board, has just announced that 62,000 more workers are wanted immediately for an expanded small arms cartridge program.

Despite "help wanted" appeals from President Roosevelt down, the war department declares that we are still 100,000 employes below quota in factories producing other essential materiel.

Why this sudden crisis?

Here is an attempt to sift the truth. It is based on information dug out from numerous authoritative sources here in Washington and elsewhere. The cry of manpower scarcities is not new. It has been raised in various industries since the defense program began. As fast as one field has been supplied, another has held out an empty plate.

It is said in the capital, somewhat cynically, that when the military lacks anything it immediately blames the war production board. This organization points an accusing thumb at industry. Business then reproaches the war manpower commission. Paul V. McNutt's office is usually the last stop in a chain of buck-passing.

* * *

SLOW—Be that as it may, there is no disputing that both Eisenhower and MacArthur must have more munitions than they are receiving.

The reserve of spare parts for guns and combat vehicles is so low that 40 plane-loads of these are flown across the Atlantic every 24 hours. Canvas tents are deteriorating rapidly in the wet Philippines jungles, forcing a 40 per cent step-up in output.

To meet fresh emergencies, army and navy experts cable home orders for new kinds of equipment.

When it is stated that a production schedule is behind on a particular date, it does not necessarily mean that manufacturing has lagged. For example, we are cutting back on a certain type of patrol ship which rolled so violently in heavy seas that crews were black and blue from resulting bruises.

A better model has been started. But, even if there are no hitches in the program, boat building is a slow process and it will be months before production of the substitute is up to schedule.

* * *

WIZARDS — Combat-loaded transports, mortars, rocket powder and machine gun bullets are demanded in larger quantities. Warnings issued by earnest war department experts often fail to mention that huge amounts already have been delivered.

In some cases our military men have underestimated future needs. One high general, at a congressional hearing, kicked because some item had not been manufactured. An aide whispered, "But, general, we forgot to order that."

Textile executives maintain that the army could have foreseen that winter in cold Germany would compel the use of a great many tents. But, they assert, supply officers placed large contracts, canceled them and now, at this late date, have upped their requisitions to huge figures. Any schedule will be behind if the sights are constantly raised.

Lieut. Gen. Somervell's specialists undoubtedly have made some bum guesses. Yet it is not easy even for logistics wizards to forecast months in advance the changing pattern of modern combat. It is war's fickle and ravenous appetite which is the prime cause of our difficulties.

* * *

UNCERTAINTY—There are other drawbacks more easily overcome. The bottleneck in heavy trucks is in part the result of manpower dearths in foundries and forge shops.

Union leaders declare that labor deserts these "heavy, hot and dirty" trades because of "starvation" wage scales. Paul McNutt's agents contend that in this field they encounter strong union opposition to the employment of West Indians and even American citizens of Mexican extraction.

The production of dry cell batteries is off; teachers and students employed during the summer went back to school.

Radar's shortcomings are from alteration in design rather than from scarcity of technicians. Most firms manufacturing the instruments also fabricate many other articles. Managements could transfer within their own walls employes from less essential tasks to the critical jobs.

Uncertainty about peacetime employment and dissatisfaction with proposed reconversion layoff compensation prompt many family men to hunt for permanent berths.

* * *

THREAT—Wrong timing by government bureaus also adds to the doubts of workers. As an instance, certain cities turning out vital airplane equipment are suffering from labor famines.

A few days ago, after war manpower commission representatives had scraped up some new men and had persuaded old hands not to quit, announcements by the department of commerce appeared in local newspapers that the defense plants in question would be considered surplus property and that proposals for their disposal were in order.

Naturally this threat of impending loss of jobs sent many Breadwinners scurrying in search of more secure positions.

The war manpower commission is assigning to critical areas special teams of experts skilled in regional and inter-regional labor recruitment.

The problem is not so much one of an over-all lack of toilers as of distribution and the failure of war industry personnel to realize that it is even more urgently needed now—at this period of battle climax—than when the assembly line first started to roll.

The most patriotic thing a victory plant worker can do today is to stick to his bench until victory is won.

VIEWS OF OTHERS

SPECTACLE OF ELECTION

Citizens of the United States will need to read newspapers in Buenos Aires, Rio de Janeiro and Sao Paulo to learn how much the mere fact of a national election in their country on Nov. 7 meant to other peoples. For as Joseph Newman reports to the New York Herald Tribune in a dispatch from Buenos Aires, newspapers in dictator-ridden Argentina and Brazil were moved by it to enthusiastic praise "for the exercise of democratic principles in the United States, even in time of war."

La Prensa and La Nacion, Argentina's two greatest newspapers, speaking editorially, dared the wrath of a government censorship that has semi-gagged them. La Prensa said the United States had set the world "a great example," had "demonstrated that there can be no danger of dictatorship in a country which renews its principal authority through clean elections every four years." La Nacion said the election in the United States "represented new proof of the living virtue of democracy compared with irresponsible regimes which disturbed the world and brought it to the catastrophe in which they are being sunk."

"Many South American newspapers," Mr. Newman said in his dispatch to the Herald Tribune, "being unable to report elections of their own, devoted extensive space to news and editorial comment about the elections in the United States."

Newspaper editors in Argentina and Brazil can speak of the spectacle of free election with a special kind of ardor, for they speak of a precious right of which they and their fellow-countrymen are deprived.

All the people of Argentina and Brazil who hunger for freedom can look at free elections with eyes to which it is all strange and wonderful and right. To them, at least, the adventure in freedom in which United States citizens participated on Nov. 7 had nothing to be matter-of-fact about. In this day, when in many nations the people are the servants of their servants and public opinion is gagged and bound, there is virtue in listening when, in any country anywhere, the people speak.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

"WASHINGTON CALLING" BY MARQUIS CHILDS

WASHINGTON — At the very last minute, the air conference in Chicago failed in its chief objective. The high hopes were suddenly dashed to the ground.

Marquis Childs

Just what went wrong is a matter of argument between the British and ourselves. The American delegates say that Britain welched at the last minute on a previous agreement to bar the quota system for air traffic, a system that our senate would never approve in a treaty.

Apparently someone in London—and it must have been someone very high up—pulled the plug on an agreement that was final except for signatures. What looms bigger than the rock of Gibraltar is that Britain seems to be demanding that the world's air traffic be divided on a 50-50 basis regardless of America's competitive position.

The British are doing this by holding out for a stipulation that air lines making long international hops must not be allowed to pick up pay passengers and freight at intermediate stops on the way to the ultimate destination. Such long distance flights are not commercially possible unless business can be picked up along the way.

* * *

An interim sub-committee has been named to try to work out this basic difference. But, to put it in the words of Adolf A. Berle, Jr., chairman of the American delegation, we're still back in the 17th century, and that door into the 20th century that had been about to open is shut again.

This failure seems to me very serious. It makes the "limited success" of Dumbarton Oaks look small indeed. All the fine talk in the world about cooperation and security will mean little if we can't get together on these basic sources of conflict.

When you put this alongside the failure of the senate to act on the British-U. S. oil agreement, it looks, as one cynic put it, as though "normalcy" had come back with a rush. It is likely to prove a very costly kind of normalcy.

Sometimes, from this side of the Atlantic, Britain has the look of a nervous old landlord who is preoccupied with the ownership of his real estate around the world. John Bull, obsessed with the fear that Britannia may cease to rule the waves, clings to old illusions.

And to the British, at times, we must have the look of a colossus bent on having our way in the world no matter what anyone else wants or needs. Uncle Sam a blind colossus! That is the picture that gets through to Britishers.

* * *

Are these the distorting mirrors in which we are to see each other? If so, then it's a waste of time to hold international conferences.

From this side of the water, it looks as though the Churchill government were playing the old familiar game of power politics in Europe. France, Belgium and Holland are to be aligned in a British bloc.

Those three countries have a lot of real estate around the world, too. Perhaps they will combine with Britain to checkmate American air lines under something like the quota system.

All this comes while the war is still being fought, while thousands of Americans, British and French are dying. I happen to believe that this war started as a war for survival. We were confronted with a design for world conquest by the fascist powers.

We'll survive. We'll come out of it with greater power than we ever had before. But, somehow, I think that survival won't be enough for those who are doing the fighting and the dying. They will want something more. They will not understand why "quota systems" should get in the way of real world peace.

HISTORY OF TWIN FALLS

AS GLEANED FROM THE FILES OF THE TIMES-NEWS

15 YEARS AGO, NOV. 30, 1929

Judge O. P. Duvall, supervisor of the census in a district composed of eight south central counties, returned last evening from a tour of the district in connection with organization for the census.

Marriage licenses were issued here yesterday to Henry Kauffman and Maxine Barlow, both of Twin Falls and to George A. Hill and Mildred Plank, both of Wendell.

E. H. Riles, hydrographer for the Twin Falls Canal company, told here last evening that he was signalled to stop on a road near Buhl and when he did so the pedestrian who hailed him said, he was "tired of walking," and ordered Riles to give up his car. Riles leaped from the car, knocked the man to the ground. Later he returned the gun belonging to the stranger and continued on his way to Buhl.

27 YEARS AGO, NOV. 30, 1917

The Hart Schaffner and Marx clothing magazine this month contains a fine picture of the Eldridge company store in this city under the heading "A store that's different."

Twin Falls has been accumulating quite a colony from Dighton, Kan. Those who first came wrote of the milk and honey and others came to see. Some time last September two brothers from there decided to come west—to Twin Falls, provided they found all that had been represented. They couldn't find a place to live, but they had two or three jobs a day hunting them.

On the first instant the well known Rogerson hotel in this city passed under the management of Mr. Carl Suntz, an experienced hotel man.

POT SHOTS

BRAVE MAN

The Back Shop Oracle says the topnotch executive is a guy who can tell a redheaded stenographer that the letter has got to be retyped for the third time.

* * *

ANYBODY INTERPRET THIS?

Pot Shots has a letter from a guy named Robert J. McLaughlin, Brooklyn, N. Y. Just in case any of you constituents are devotees of the occult (we guess this is occult), we pass along excerpts for your edification:

The Ezekiel Wheel

. . . Newton laid down the principle that no man can pull himself up by the bootstraps. He said in his third law of motion that "to every action there is always an equal reaction." This meant that we might never visit the moon unless it could be shown that Newton was wrong.

. . . The Ezekiel Wheel appeared suddenly on the plains of Mesopotamia in the year 595 B. C. It served to propel four airships which had flown down from outer space to the prophet Ezekiel who was a captive of Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, and lived with the other Jewish captives by the river Chebar near Babylon.

Ezekiel called the airships "living creatures," for the wheel which propelled them was evidently a perpetual motion machine, because it acted as if alive and moved of its own volition, "for the spirit of the living creature was in the wheels."

This then was the answer to the science of Newton, a wheel which could travel to the moon and keep turning indefinitely of its own never ending power.

I had to reconstruct it from the crude description of Ezekiel, given in the Bible. This was not so hard because my own patents, investigations, and experiments paralleled this very wheel. I saw that rings must be employed with wheels within wheels, and the material must be like the beryl or beryllium, which is the same as glucinum, a hard silver white metallic element 75 per cent as heavy as aluminum.

I set to work with aluminum sheets to make the Ezekiel wheel and actually developed two pounds of free force capable of flight through outer space. The rings of my model were only 20 inches in diameter whereas the rings of the Ezekiel Wheel were "so high that they were dreadful."

Accordingly, I could not expect much pull from my small model, but it was enough to drive a little moon car over the floor of my apartment at Manhattan Beach. This performance was reported in the Brooklyn Eagle on June 18, 1944.

I am working on another model 27 inches in diameter and expect it to show perpetual motion. When this is found I will build the real chariot of space for a pioneer voyage to the moon.

All this sounds like a dream, but that is the trouble with the world. Real things seem to be dreams and religious faith a will-o-the-wisp, a phosphorescent glow seen in the air over marshy places. Robert J. McLaughlin.

THE GENTLEMAN IN THE THIRD ROW

HOW THINGS APPEAR FROM PEGLER'S ANGLE

NEW YORK — Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, the commissioner of baseball, was the first of those decorative autocrats who were selected by various industries early in the era of wonderful nonsense, following the first World war, as personal guarantors of the morals and integrity of such trades. Baseball chose him at an hour when the game, as a business, was terribly distressed by the corruption of the world series between the White Sox and the Reds in 1919. For similar reasons, the movie industry selected Will Hays as its "czar," the newspaper term for such executives, and czarism became rife in the prizefight, the mop and broom, the garment and the hay, grain and feed industries, with varying results.

Westbrook Pegler

Oddly, in a nation which had only yesterday dusted off its clothes, stuck court-plaster on its cuts and turned hilariously and feloniously to zymology and viticulture, after crushing autocracy forever, the Americans took joyously to the rule of czars in their non-essential but sentimental interests. The mere presence of Judge Landis, of the U. S. district court, was accepted as an absolute guarantee that henceforth, as long as he ruled, sin and baseball would be strangers.

* * *

This was an illusion. A few athletes who had been doing business with under-world gamblers found themselves still in the toils and the management of one of the large major league firms which had been associated with a bucket shop, a crooked race track, a questionable real estate promotion and an equally undignified oil stock flotation.

Moreover, although Landis detested professional gamblers and revealed an intention to prevent even the most casual personal association between players and crap-shooters, another of the men who was paying part of his salary as czar had been a dealer in old-time gambling houses and was believed to have been a proprietor. Obviously, the czar couldn't fire certain of his own employers and the other employers, whose own background was relatively hygienic, could not divest them of their properties, which were worth millions, and throw them out.

* * *

As time wore on, however, these drifted out of the game and mortality adjusted the judge's position as to the indecorous minority among his own bosses. There were only three more scandals involving players and, as far as the press and public know, which isn't necessarily everything, the ugly specter of bribery has never again poisoned the well-spring of baseball's fair escutcheon, as the phrase used to go among the orators at the annual banquets.

Still, the judge, or the squire as you called him if you knew him well, was in a strange position. Baseball has many laws, most of which, up to his time in office, favored the soulless corporations which were paying his salary and discriminated against the player, who was called a chattel because he could, literally, be sold for cash or old baseballs or, as legend insisted in one case, traded for a hard-tail bird-dog.

Up to his time it had been the custom of the bosses to put their heads together and "whisper out" any player who made a nuisance of himself as an "agitator" or a hard-rock man, meaning a tunneler who undermined managers and team morale with complaints and demands.

* * *

A major leaguer, thus whispered out, went down to the minor leagues or, in some cases, kept right on going and found himself exiled entirely from organized baseball while still in his prime. This could be even though his only offense was to ask for a raise in pay and it was their resentment against low wages and the whispering-out process which animated some of the Chicago White Sox of 1919 in their unhappy decision to throw the world series to the Reds for bribes promised by gamblers which were not fully paid. They were receiving less than $3,000 a year, on the average, although they were rated then and still regarded by some as the greatest team in baseball history.

Their employer, old Charlie Comiskey, a gregarious host and politician, was known, through his hospitality and the consequent publicity, as the noblest Roman. But he had no romantic opinion of ballplayers, having been one himself, and he kept his payrolls down unreasonably to his own great cost after the scandal, when he lost his wonderful ball team, and never again in his life, could put together a winner.

Landis had to interpret baseball law, including issues involving enormous property values in which boss and player were the litigants and, sometimes, in the manner of czars, finding no law or the law unreasonable, he simply rolled his own. He was his own supreme court, except that in a crisis he could appeal to public opinion, confident of his public position, he did fight the owners many times and made expensive decisions against them, sometimes in favor of individual players.

* * *

Strangely, although Landis, as judge, had paroled an underpaid bank clerk who had stolen $100,000, he never would readmit to baseball any players who had been thrown out for corruption. True, in most cases, their talents waned in a few years but a disgraced ball-player could not come back even as coach or bat-caddy.

The disgraced White Sox remain notorious to this day, like so many Benedict Arnolds, although they did nothing against the public interest and their employer had been no more appreciative than the bank and had exposed them to great temptation.

The old squire had his eccentricities. He was forever promoting another chance for some poor drunkard. He had a quaint habit of plucking a sprig of weed and stabbing it in his buttonhole. And when he was a federal judge, full rigged with the awesome dignity of the federal bench of those days, he pawned his life insurance to raise a loan for a cub reporter drawing $17 a week, who needed $3,000 for a desperate family emergency and, except in his character, was not a promising risk.

He got his money back, too, and with it the devotion of one of his life-long friends.

HEATH'S VIEWS ON DOINGS IN WASHINGTON

The old age insurance trust fund—the reserve out of which your retirement benefits are to be paid at some future date—already has lost more than $3,400,000,000 because Uncle Sam has waived so many "premium" payments.

S. Burton Heath

By the end of September the trust fund had in it $5,738,492,000. Add to that the $3,400,000,000 that has been lost, plus interest which I haven't troubled to compute, and you will get well over $10,000,000,000. That is what should be in the trust fund to provide against future monthly checks for retired workers over 65 and their families.

The requirements to meet benefit demands were computed by some of the nation's best actuaries before social security was provided by congress in 1935. Changes in the law since that time have not decreased the amount that will be needed. If anything, they have added to it.

* * *

To provide enough money to finance your old age insurance some day the actuaries found that the trust fund should get two per cent of what each insured worker earned, up to $3,000, in the years 1937 to 1939, inclusive; three per cent of what each earned from 1940 to 1942, inclusive; four per cent of 1943 through 1945 earnings; five per cent of 1946 through 1948 earnings; and six per cent of earnings thereafter.

The cost was divided equally between employe and employer, each to pay half.

However by one amendment (1939) and two special acts (1943 and 1944) the premiums have been held at the original two per cent, half from you and half from your employer, and benefits were changed greatly.

The difference between what the actuaries said should be collected up to now to pay for these benefits, and what has been collected, is the $3,400,000,000 shortage, on which old age insurance client have lost also interest on the government bonds in which the money would have been invested.

Now Senator Vandenberg of Michigan proposes to freeze the premium at two per cent (half from employes) again for 1945. This would cost the fund another $1,300,000,000 at least, plus lost interest.

The social security board and the treasury department both oppose the freeze. They want the premium rate to go up next Jan. 1 to the four per cent (half from the employe) that the law now provides for.

* * *

The board says that the benefits provided by the present law will require at least four per cent of the covered payroll, and may call for as much as seven per cent. And already there is a deficit of more than four billion dollars.

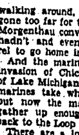
Senator Vandenberg doesn't challenge those figures. He says there is a conflict in the law, and uncertainty as to how much will be needed. He wants to freeze the premium (tax) for just one more year, have experts recanvass the situation, and then adopt a scale of taxes and stick to it.

That in substance, is the issue over social security taxes about which congress may or may not act in this lame duck session.

BOB HOPE

It Says Here—

CHICAGO—I went out to the navy's sixth war loan exhibition, "Pacific Theater," to see the new equipment our fighting men are using and your war bond dollars are buying.



BOB HOPE

Charles Boyer sold bonds in Chicago during the last drive and he gave away a kiss with each bond. I don't know how many he sold, but that night he had to sleep with his lower lip out on the fire escape.

One man was walking around, wondering if he'd gone too far for the bond drive, but Morgenthau convinced him that he hadn't and even got him a barrel to go home in.

And the marines staged a mock invasion of Chicago on the shore of Lake Michigan. I won't say those marines take what they go after, but now the mayor is trying to gather up enough ransom to get back to the Loop district.

There are a lot of Waves there and I offered to give a kiss with each bond, but they finally got the sales started again.

They had one of those little two-man Jap submarines on exhibition. I had some trouble getting through the hatch. . . Then Secretary Morgenthau helped me. He took quite a lot off my hip.

AVALIER CHOSEN POMONA MASTER

RUPERT, Nov. 30—Joe Avalier was elected master of the Minidoka county Grange at a busy election meeting which also included discussion of weed control and presentation of an entertainment program.

Others elected by the Pomona were Bert Van Every, overseers; Howard Bruns, lecturer; Mrs. Charles Hagar, chaplain; J. R. Culley, steward; Charles Hagar, assistant steward; Mrs. Lawrence Carter, treasurer; Mrs. Russell Bowman, secretary; the three graces, Mrs. Frank Maricle, Ceres; Mrs. Bert Van Every, Flora; Mrs. Ed. Moldenhauer, Pomona; Mrs. J. R. Culley, lady assistant steward; alternates to Idaho State Grange meeting, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur T. Smith. The installation of officers will be at Pioneer school, date to be announced. The next meeting will be at the West End grange hall.

The morning session at I.O.O.F hall was devoted to discussion of weed control and other questions of interest to the members. Luncheon was served at 1 o'clock by ladies of the Rupert Grange.

Following luncheon, Mrs. Russell Acock, lecturer, presented a program consisting of group singing; a reading by Miss Marie Spevak; two numbers by Rupert high school girls' sextet, including Dorothy Rogers, Raume Stewart, Joan Turner, Wanda Acock, Dawn Barnes and Carol Cunningham, accompanied by Mrs. Howard Bruns.

Fuller Fenton, Mrs. Howard Bruns, Mrs. Charles Hagaar and Ernie Maricle, with Howard Bruns, as reader, all of Rupert Grange, presented a pantomime number.

Marine Graduate Sent to Carolina

Last Rites Held For Mrs. Staley

KIMBERLY, Nov. 30 — Funeral services for Mrs. Bethia Staley were held at 2 p. m. Wednesday at the Twin Falls mortuary chapel with Elder Wendell Glenn of the LDS church in Kimberly, in charge.

The speaker was Percy L. Lawrence. The benediction was given by James A. Stanger and the grave was dedicated by N. E. Olsen. Invocation was by E. Morgan.

Music for the services was furnished by George Bennett.

Flower girls were Pearl Staley Robertson, Cleo Staley Denton, Donna Staley, Lois Staley, Beverly Staley and Elvira Sudweeks.

Pallbearers were Clifford Staley, Warren Staley, Walter Douglas, B. J. Staley, Theodore Staley and Lester Staley.

Interment was in the Twin Falls cemetery under the direction of the Twin Falls mortuary.

Sgt. Otto Harr Gets Bronze Star

Sgt. Otto Harr, formerly of Twin Falls, has been awarded the bronze star, the silver star and the combat infantryman's medal for action overseas.

Sergeant Harr was awarded the bronze star for action in France when the machine gun squad leader was killed, and Harr took over on his own accord and held the position.

The silver star was received by him for helping evacuate the wounded, under fire.

Sergeant Harr is the brother of Mrs. Katie Sandau, Twin Falls, and Mrs. Pauline Haffner, Buhl. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. August Harr, live at Kulm, N. D.

He was engaged in the carpentering trade before he entered the service.

Four Enlist in Company K Here

Four new recruits were added to the enlistment roll of Company K, Idaho state guard last night at the company's meeting held in the American Legion hall, Lieut. Orrin Fuller, publicity officer, reported.

Those joining were Charles Stroud, jr., James B. Kessler, Alvin P. Stearn and Thomas Chugg.

Other business of the evening included a lecture by Lieut. Thomas Bucklin on the application of fire. Sgt. John Gentry gave a demonstration and talk on the care of rifle used by guardsmen. A demonstration on the use of the gas mask was given by Capt. Ralph L. McFarlane.

Following the demonstration and lectures, the non-commissioned officers met for a round-table discussion of future plans for drills and exhibitions.

Maj. Harshbarger Directs Air Unit

Maj. Elmer T. Harshbarger assumed his duties Nov. 12 as commanding officer of the army air force base unit of the ferrying division, air transport command at Adams field, Little Rock, Ark., his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Harshbarger, Filer, have been informed.

A native of Filer, Major Harshbarger was enlisted as an aviation cadet in November, 1940. He received flight training at Randolph field, Tex., and Barksdale field, La. He took advanced four-engine training at Albuquerque, N. M., and holds the army's highest pilot rating.

Major Harshbarger has served in the western and northwestern sectors of the A. T. C. and was formerly executive for operations and training for the seventh ferrying group at Great Falls, Mont.

He was graduated from the Filer high school and attended the College of Idaho, Caldwell, before joining the service. Three brothers are also in the services.

Suit Is Filed for Interest on $450

Lynn Morse, Twin Falls, filed a complaint yeserday afternoon in probate court against Virgil McCarty, described as "owing six per cent interest from Jan. 16, 1941, on $450."

The complaint states that McCarty purchased property from Morse at a sales price of $480, paid $30 cash, as well as the balance due, but did not pay the interest.

J. H. Barnes, Twin Falls, is attorney for the plaintiff.

SECURITY LEVY FOE PROVES FIERY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30 (AP) — First it's the money, then it's the psychology that Fred W. Perkins doesn't like about social security taxes.

The York, Pa., battery manufacturer, implacable foe of the taxes, registered his objections before the house ways and means committee in a booming voice, interrupted by frequent brushes with committee members who thought he was beside the point.

The point was, Rep. Cooper, D., Tenn., said, whether the tax on payrolls should go from one to two per cent.

Perkins, jailed for his principles, said first of all he's against the whole idea. Upping the tax will just about ruin small business, he said.

He threw in a blast at graduated income taxes and on this line struck a blow for the rich.

"Let Americans want to get rich again," he shouted. "Let them compete for that honor. It's the rich who will be the saviors of this country."

Perkins got along fine with Rep. Reed, R., N. Y., with whom he played on the 1897 Cornell university football team but he didn't click with Chairman Doughton, D., N. C.

"You're holding that watch on me," he complained after he had spoken 40 minutes. "Other witnesses have had an hour. I can't go on with a man holding a watch on me."

Doughton looked for a minute like there would be a whistle on the play but he didn't blow it and Perkins was permitted to proceed.

Woman Arrested for Lighting Cob Pipe

NEW YORK, Nov. 30 (U.P.)—Red-haired Mrs. Mary Wilson, 25, was arrested for violating fire regulations in a dime store where she lighted a corncob pipe. Explaining to a magistrate, Mrs. Wilson said she had bought the Missouri meerschaum as part of a farmer's get-up for a masquerade party and was testing it. He suspended sentence.

DFC AWARDED TO B-24 TOP GUNNER

AN EIGHTH AIR FORCE BOMBER STATION, England—Staff Sgt. J. L. Edwards, 25, formerly of Twin Falls, Ida., top turret gunner on the B-24 Liberator, "Belle of the Brawl," has won the distinguished flying cross for "extraordinary achievement . . . cool courage and devotion to duty" during eighth air force bombing attacks on targets in nazi Germany and enemy occupied Europe.

Sergeant Edwards is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse L. Edwards, now of 3048 Mayfield avenue, La Crescenta, Calif. A graduate of Twin Falls high school, the veteran gunner was employed as a salesman in La Crescenta before entering the army air forces.

A veteran of some of the outstanding missions of the eighth air force, Sergeant Edwards said D-day gave him the greatest thrill. "We had a very rough time," the air combat man recalled. "We were in the air more than 17 hours and that's certainly no picnic. But after it was all over, we had a feeling of satisfaction unequalled. We felt ours had been a vital contribution to the beginning of the end of the war."

Sergeant Edwards also participated in the aerial assault on St. Lo, helping launch the drive that culminated in the capture of the Brest peninsula.

The combat gunner was over Politz on the day in which considerable damage was dealt a synthetic oil refinery. "I saw flames leap high in the air," he said, "and smoke appeared to rise 20,000 feet. If we didn't destroy an oil refinery, we certainly crippled it."

YOUNG

SOLDIER VISITS FAMILY

BUHL, Nov. 30—Pvt. Glenn Wilmer Young recently enjoyed a furlough with his wife and two children at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Johnson, Buhl. Private Young is stationed at Fort Lewis, Wash.

Born in Filer, he went to Twin Falls grade and high school, graduating from Twin Falls high school in 1933. He also completed a course in architectural drafting at Chicago Tech in 1942. Immediately after graduation from high school he managed a second hand store for his uncle, E. A. Moore, Twin Falls. He was married to Miss Elsie Johnson, Buhl, in Twin Falls Sept. 20, 1937.

Young was also employed in the Petersen Furniture store at Blackfoot, and before entering the army he was managing his own business of repairing and upholstering in Buhl. He joined the armed forces April 26, 1943.

Private Young returned to Fort Lewis at the close of his furlough.

Rotary Hears of School's Methods

GOODING, Nov. 30—State school personnel provided the entertainment at the regular Rotary club meeting, demonstrating some of their teaching methods and exhibiting some of their handiwork. Burton Driggs, superintendent of the State school, presented each Rotarian with a letter opener, hand carved from various varieties of wood sent him from the south Pacific.

Pfc. Bill Krahn, marine, displayed souvenirs collected in the Pacific war theater.

Guests attending were Jack Downey, Los Angeles; Pfc. Bill Krahn; Bob Thompson, Mans Coffin, Palmer Martin, Shoshone; Eddie Ryan and Lester Hemphill, Gooding.

Reelected were Rowland Newlan, gatekeeper; Mrs. Lulu Meiser, secretary; C. F. Yingst, treasurer; Miss Mary Mogensen, chaplain; Mrs. C. F. Yingst, lady assistand steward, and Mrs. H. D. Jenkins, lecturer.

Mrs. O. K. Wall was elected as juvenile matron.

Rations Removed From Used Tires

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30 (AP)—Used passenger car tires will be removed from rationing Dec. 5.

In announcing this today, OPA said distribution of used tires had become very spotty, with certificate holders unable to find suitable tires in many areas.

For this reason, the agency said, rationing of used tires has ceased to serve any valuable purpose and has become an unnecessary burden on local boards.

Used truck tires will continue under rationing.

Democracy Must Not Become "Blind Alley," Services Told

American democracy must never become a "blind alley" but rather must be a leading power—leading peoples, within and without our borders, out of bondage, slavery, misery, out of poverty, squalor and want — to the highlands of freedom, plenty and of opportunity and to faith in God.

That was the message of the Thanksgiving sermon of the Rev. G. L. Clark, pastor of the Presbyterian church, at the annual community Thanksgiving service at the First Methodist church Wednesday evening.

Soldiers Ambassadors

Rev. Mr. Clark, who himself was overseas in the last conflict, said that "we rejoice today in the conviction that our boys, after all, are ambassadors of good will and of noble ideals wherever they serve, and we rejoice in the conviction that they will be able to show the boys of other countries the 'more excellent way.' For that conviction we are profoundly thankful."

The speaker recalled that our forefathers were deeply grateful for the things "that had kept body and soul together."

"Someone reminds us that this festival is associated with the most physical, the most basic and elementary need of men with cornfields and log cabins. It is associated with food and shelter. Hence citizens of all creeds and religious beliefs in this country could adopt this festival as their own and observe it in their own houses of worship." He continued by saying:

"As the years have come and gone, we as a nation of people have included in our list other things besides food and shelter to be thankful for.

"And they do not preclude any one from giving thanks freely and sincerely in company with other folk. The day is always a day of thanksgiving for all."

Pointing out that the world is now turning more and more to Christianity, Rev. Mr. Clark declared that "we are reminded immediately of another reason for Thanksgiving."

Among these reasons, he said, was the fact that writers, radio commentators and government leaders are telling of the need for the Christian religion in the world.

"The U. S. government has never spent money for Bibles and Testaments in any previous war as it has done for this one; nor has it built so many chapels for the religious faiths represented in the military, nor has it ever commissioned so many chaplains of several faiths.

Pause to Thank

"These give cause and should make us pause to thank God once and again. Indeed, the trend toward greater respect for God and His word gives greater urge for thanksgiving," he said.

In prayer, Rev. Mr. Clark asked God to "look upon the unrest of the world and be pleased to complete the work of Thy healing hand. Send peace upon the earth, a deeper more lasting peace than the world has ever known. Draw all men to Thyself, and to one another by the bands of love.

"Grant understanding to the nations with an increase of sympathy and mutual good will, that they may be united in a sacred brotherhood wherein justice, mercy and faith, truth and freedom may flourish, so that the sacrifice of those who have died may not have been made in vain, for the sake of Jesus Christ, Our Lord."

At the union services, call to worship was by the Rev. Mark C. Cronenberger while the invocation was by the Rev. Claud Pratt. Responsive reading was by the Rev. Meryl Neumich and Thanksgiving prayer by the Rev. Herman C. Rice. Benediction was by President Claude Brown of the L.D.S. church. Special music was by Miss Josephine Throckmorton, by the Baptist church youth and by the Methodist church choir.

Daughter Born to Ex-Jerome Nurse

JEROME, Nov. 30 — Friends in Jerome and Twin Falls have learned of the birth Nov. 22 in Pocatello hospital of a daughter, Martha Ann, to Mr. and Mrs. John J. Struckus.

Mrs. Struckus, the former Elva Pugmire, Jerome county public health nurse, lived at Twin Falls for several years before coming to Jerome. Her husband, a chief petty officer in the navy, is stationed at Great Lakes, Ill., after having been serving in Puerto Rico.

Don Gentile Marries In Military Nuptial

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 30 (AP)—Capt. Don Gentile, 23, an ace fighter pilot in the European theater, was married in a military ceremony yesterday to Miss Isabella Masden, 21.

Gentile, a native of Piqua, O., came home last spring after shooting down 23 German planes and destroying seven on the ground. He since has been stationed at Wright field. His bride formerly worked for a commercial motor freight company here.

Wrong Name

That fight between the man and the telephone pole which was "called" by police Tuesday night has been cancelled for two reasons:

1. One of the contestants was using an assumed name (contrary to Marquis of Queensbury rules). It turned out that the pugilist, Raymond T. Owens, was not Melvin Douglas Cooper, as originally booked, and was, in the opinion of the court, intoxicated.

2. The same contestant is now "laying out" a sentence at the city jail for failure to pay a $10 fine on a charge of drunkenness.

NO PANTS

November's chilly weather failed to daunt the nudist aspirations of Louis Harp, resident of this area, who was discovered wandering pantless on Main avenue east by city police Wednesday evening.

Not in Mrs. Murphy's chowder, but in back of the Sears, Roebuck and company building, the officers found the missing breeches—after Harp had been placed in a cell in the city jail to prevent illness due to exposure.

Incidental to housing and reclothing the man, a charge of drunkenness was filed against him.

COUNSEL ASSAILS ANTI-RAIL ACTION

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 30 (U.P.)—The justice department's anti-trust suit against western railroads will leave "destruction, ruin, and utter chaos in its wake if it succeeds," Joseph H. Hays, counsel for the Western Association of Railway Executives, Chicago, told the Western Growers association today.

"After seeing nothing in the rate structure to complain about for more than 40 years," Hays said, "the department of justice, in the middle of a double-headed war, rushes into court to contend that the procedure of making rates under the jurisdiction of the interstate commerce commission violates the anti-trust laws. Lawyers and economists of the department insist the railroads must dissolve rate conferences, cease conferring with shippers and each other aobut rates and stop their joint publication of tariffs.

"If they prevail in these contentions, shippers and railroads face utter chaos in the marketing of the products of western agriculture and industry."

534 in County Get $19,470 Public Aid

BOISE, Nov. 30 (AP)—The average grant given to Idaho's 11,966 public assistance cases during October declined from $30.72 in September to $30.62 in October and the total expenditure dropped $3,181 to $366,449.90.

The figures were shown today in the monthly report of the department of public assistance by Commissioner H. C. Baldridge.

The number of cases during September was 12,032.

The distribution by counties, with the number of cases listed first and the total county grant second, included: Twin Falls, 534, $19,470.

SUGAR SHORTAGE IN 1945 LOOMS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30 (U.P.) — Food industry officials told the government today that the nation faces a serious sugar shortage in 1945 unless steps are taken now to prevent it.

The warning was sounded by the food industry war committee, composed of representatives of the food processing and distributing industry, which said U. S. sugar stocks totaled 465,000 tons on Oct. 1, 1944, "an amount much lower than on any corresponding date during the past 10 years."

It attributed the shortage to lack of shipping to bring in sugar from outside the country and lack of sufficient production here.

To correct the situation the group recommended that more ships be diverted to bring in sugar from other countries, that local refiners be given manpower and priorities aid, that the present rationing program be revamped to avoid "loose and illegal" distribution and that no sugar shoud be used for making alcohol.

It also suggested that the armed forces "study their requirements carefully so they will avoid building up a nedelessly high stockpile" and that government agencies "measure our already curtailed domestic sugar needs carefully before assigning sugar for distribution to our allies, UNRRA and lend-lease."

Alpha Nu Club's Gremlin Ball Is Largely Attended

Pledges of Alpha Nu, girls' high school age social club, were honored this week at the Gremlin ball, a semi-formal dance held at the American Legion Memorial hall. Carrying out the theme of the dance large gremlins decorated the dance hall. The false ceiling was of green and white, club colors. Club members made the programs which featured hand-painted gremlins on the covers.

Music for the dance was played by Arlon Bastian and his orchestra. Virginia Fuller, club president, led the grand march with her escort Harold Mason. Following the president were Ruth McCarthy, treasurer, and Martell Yates; Pat Dwyer, secretary, and Kenneth DeMent; Ellen Rae Joslin, sergeant-at-arms, and Paul Ewing.

The programs were arranged under the supervision of Margaret Dahlquist and Geraldine Beam, hall, Ellen Rae Joslin; decorations, Kathleen Frost; intermission, Bonnie Tulloch; and music, Marilyn DeKlotz.

During the intermission the following pledges were introduced: Margie Albee, Esta Fae Pearson, Donna Nielson, Bonnie Tuloch, Margaret Dahlquist, Nola Jean Carter, Maurene Moyes, Kathleen Frost, Anita Miracle, Ruth Tolman, Norma Fuller, Brookie Condie, Peggy Scott, DeNice Drowne, Marjory Greene, Veda Hansen, Donna Drips and Helen Cooper.

Invitations were extended to parents and members of Tri-C and MeT clubs. Mrs. George Sandholtz, senior sponsor, and Miss Gale Beam, junior sponsor, were present during the dance.

Thanksgiving Guests

GOODING, Nov. 30—Among those enjoying Thanksgiving here last week were Miss Meredyth Bowler, high school English and music teacher at Pocatello, and Miss Esther Heller, secretary to the general manager of the Pasadena Playhouse in Pasadena, Calif.

Two students of the Albion State Normal college who were home for the occasion were Miss Doris Redington and Venoy Neilson. Miss Redington is an education major.

Callen and Craig Betrothal Told Jerome Friends

JEROME, Nov. 29—Mr. and Mrs. Burley E. Craig, Jerome, have announced the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Anna Lou Craig, to Dick Callen, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Callen, also of this city.

The nuptials are calendared for early December, at the Callen home southwest of Jerome.

For the past several months, the bride-elect has been employed here by the Farm Labor association. She was winner of the coveted Davis trophy upon graduation from Jerome high school last May, and took a leading part in all school activities during her four years.

Miss Craig played the leading feminine role in the all-school play, "M'Liss," in her senior year, and was active in Gamma Rho society, Girls' Athletic association, the "J" club and was a member of the Live Wire staff, the high school newspaper.

The bridegroom-elect, also a graduate of the Jerome high school, took an active part in scholastic and athletic activities. He was a member of the basketball team in his freshman year and participated in school plays.

They will live in Jerome following their marriage next month.

CARE OF YOUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

Fear is contagious. Habits of thought have much influence on health. If children are reared in an atmosphere of dread, of fear, their health will surely suffer. In their anxiety mothers often keep children in a state of fear about their health and so bring upon the children and themselves 'the thing they so much feared': illness.

"Marie, put on another sweater. If you go out with only that light one you will surely catch pneumonia." "Kitty, change your place. I think you're in a draught." "Johnny, I want you to take oil this morning. You don't look quite right to me. Last night I heard you cough." "Come here, Frank, I want to take your temperature. Your eyes look dull."

If a mother tried her level best she could not take a course that would more surely lead to the illness she dreads. Teach a child to fear illness, to think of it often, to arrange his days in anticipation of it, and you set his course in ill-health. He is likely to carry that attitude through life and become one of those poor suffering people who are forever ailing and have nothing the matter with them save the state of mind that lives in fear of illness. Teach health. Talk it. Keep sound health always in the minds of children. "You look fine today. That good dinner must have gone right to the spot last night." "Well, you have a good appetite this lunch time. Good for you. You'll be able to run a mile in two minutes flat at this rate." "Think you have a cold. Just a sniffle. Keep warm and stay in the sunshine and it will pass, I'm sure. Drink some orange juice for what ails you and run along."

If He's Really Ill You'll Know It

When a child is really ill nobody will have to tell him so. He will be the first to know it and he will soon tell you. "I feel funny, mom." Then it is time to bring out the thermometer, but weep its tale to yourself. Smile cheerfully and say, Well, better stay in bed a while this morning. Take a nap, and when you wake up you'll feel better." Then do what is necessary for him. If he has fever call the doctor and tell him clearly what you find: tetmperature, pulse, respiration, condition of skin, moist or dry; appearance of eyes, throat, nose; pair or its absence; condition of bowels; presence or absence of vomiting, and any other symptom you detect.

But do not under any condition let the child know any of it that can be kept from him. Keep telling him he will be better in the morning. Thought has tremendous influence on health. So keep it set on a high standard of well being always.

A child's life can be made miserable by fear. Angelo Patri tells parents how to overcome fears in their children in his leaflet P-1, "Fear." To obtain a copy, send five cents in coin and a stamped self-addressed envelope to him in care of Times-News, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

WERE I GOD

What would I think, what would I do,
Were I God,
As chanting voices from the earth,
In humble reverence, cant or mirth,
Beseech a blessing from my hands
Upon America's wide flung lands?

"God Bless America," right or wrong,
By myriads has been lipped in song;
A prayer for favor, set to tune,
Whereby man can with God commune;
A prayer from devoutful, pious hearts
That know not evil's paths and arts,
But, alas, too oft from unwashed souls
A plea for gift from Heaven's doles.

What would I think what would I do,
Were I God,
As to my throne on celestial air
Would come the mockery of prayer?
I think that I constrained should be
To ask, "Has America blest me?"

Jerome M. I. A. Honors Founders

JEROME, Nov. 30—In celebration of the seventy-fifth anniversary of the Young Woman's Mutual Improvements association, approximately 300 persons attended the L. D.S. first and second wards joint sacrament meeting at the church here.

Following the opening exercises the meeting was turned over to the young women of the mutual, who presented a cleverly arranged program. The story of the organization of the Y.W.M.I.A. was read by Mary Tilby, president of the young women's first ward.

The part of Brigham Young was played by Nathan Dredge.

Brief talks were presented later by members of the Beehive, junior, gleaner and adult classes of the first ward concerning their aims and ideals.

The combined chorus of both wards, with Mrs. Gertrude Henderson conducting, and Ellen Thueson as accompanist, sang three class songs. President of the young men's mutual of the second ward, Eldon Thompson, paid tribute to the young women's mutual in a brief talk.

Closing song was by the congregation and benediction was given by Mrs. Ann Robinson, president of the young women's association, of the second ward.

Announcement was made that the M.I.A. of both wards will again join in presenting a program Friday, Dec. 1, at 8 p. m. in honor of the diamond jubilee. The public is invited to the program and dancing which will follow in the evening.

MR. PENROD

MRS. PENROD

(Photos by Meiners, staff engraving)

Married in Temple

Mr. and Mrs. Penrod were married in the L. D. S. temple by John R. Winters, apostle, Dec. 5, 1894.

Mr. Penrod was born in Provo, Utah, Oct. 26, 1872, and his parents moved while he was an infant to Wallsburg in Wasatch county. He attended schools there and also went to Brigham Young university. In 1898 he went on a mission for his church, serving almost two years in Arkansas.

Mrs. Penrod was born Nov. 13, 1876, in Charleston, Utah, and was reared there.

Following their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Penrod lived in Wallsburg until 1907, when they moved to American Fork, Utah. He was employed by the sugar company there. In 1917 they moved to a farm in Heyburn, and in 1918 they bought a farm in Declo, which they still own, although their son lives there. They moved to their home in town two and one half years ago.

Active Church Workers

Both have been active in L. D. S. church work all their married life. He is a high priest in Burley stake, and she is a Relief society teacher.

Ten sons and daughters were born to Mr. and Mrs. Penrod, seven of whom are still living. These are Owen Penrod, Declo, now working in Washington; Mrs. Vera Nielson, Richmond, Calif.; Mrs. LaVon Schrieber, Salt Lake City; Mrs. Verland Salling, Hailey; Lyman Penrod, Rupert; Mrs. Zelia Paxton, Salt Lake City, and Ellwood Penrod, Declo.

They also have 12 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

LONDONERS TAKE ROBOTS IN STRIDE

By CHARLES FOLTZ

LONDON, Nov. 30 (AP)—Since 1939 I've heard and read of people at war in Switzerland, the Balkans and in Portugal. Until now I've never been in one of the United Nations at war.

I've just left Spain, where the story of free men fighting was once almost submerged by German propaganda. For an American out of Europe, the first look at London is a shock.

We stepped off the Madrid plane, into an assembly line of swift movement. Papers and written material went to the censor. We got them back in London two days later. We confirmed our business to men who know it anyhow, then stepped into the London train.

White bread, good beer, hot food and warmth were found on the train and there was not a single stop from the airport to London. The propagandists hadn't mentioned this.

Porters, Too

Porters—yes, porters—were at the station. Phone calls, tupenny each, confirm hotel reservations made by the airfield officials. They predicted we'd be sleeping in the streets, but were joking. Nobody sleeps in London's streets.

At the station we waited for a taxi. Our turn came. Five passengers got out and the driver said, "'Op in." We tried but found five American GIs already inside. 'Mysterious guys, eh?" said the driver to the grinning GIs. "Commandos climbin' in from the street side. Out with you."

They climbed out grinning. "Can't blame us for trying, Joe."

In my room, I read a note under the glass of the telephone table: "Guests are requested to inform the operator if they wish to be advised of air alarms." The suggestion is that it's better to sleep.

In a pub, tossing off a half-pint with an old friend we heard a buzz-bomb land. The barmaid threaded her needle and went to work darning somebody's sock without looking up. I, the newcomer, glanced at the door. A barrel organ in the street never missed a beat.

Her Last Girdle

There was a woman operating a small steam shovel in the ruins of a blitzed building. I sat behind her in a bus and heard her tell a WAC friend that her last girdle broke the night before. The American girl said she had an extra she could spare.

In the lunchroom an American GI loaned his tobacco pouch to a South African tank corps man. In the theater, an English usherette told a newly arrived American engineer that his coffee—served on a tray at intermission—was nine pence, not the nine shillings he offered. "What do you think we're running here, the Bank of England?"

An MP in a big U. S. army office building left his information desk to guide an English major somewhere. An American colonel on leave took over.

Cooperation. That's what astounds a newcomer to London who has had to listen for years to Dr. Goebbels.

USE OF YANK GAS UPON JAPS URGED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30 (UP)—Some quarters here believe the United States could persuade Japanese authorities to give decent protection to American airmen forced down on combat missions by threatening a general chemical warfare offensive in retaliation for further murders.

The Japanese radio yesterday announced that American bomber crewmen who parachuted from damaged ships would be killed by the Japanese people. Some of the Doolittle raiders were executed.

China repeatedly has accused Japanese commanders of using gas and President Roosevelt threatened reprisals if Jap gas tactics could be proven.

Some responsible American military men believe gas would be more effective and more humane than other weapons, under certain conditions. For instance, in clearing cliff caves of isolated Japanese garrisons there is not much argument among military men that gas would be the best weapon from the standpoint of conserving American lives.

Rites for Child Accident Victim

JEROME, Nov. 30—Last rites for Larry Lee Muffler, 5-year-old accident victim, Wendell, were conducted here at the Wiley funeral home, Bishop F. E. Hulet, Wendell LDS church officiating. Interment was in the Jerome cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Merlin Christensen sang, and invocation was by Bert Nelson. Roma Christenten and Irma Brimhall sang a duet. Speakers were Bishop A. Leo Olsen, Jerome, and Bishop Hulet. Irma Brimhall, Roma Christensen, Merlin Christensen and Thomas Smith sang a quartet number. Norman Sant offered the benediction.

Pallbearers were Marvin Merritt, Ronald Taylor, Jack Clough and Kimble Hall.

The grave dedication was by Bishop Charles Andrus, Jerome.

The child met death near Jerome Friday when his father's car collided with an auto operated by Elmer Fattig, Jerome.

Hazelton Soldier Crawls 300 Yards, Destroys Nazi Battery

A U. S. ARMY GENERAL HOSPITAL, England, Nov. 29—Crawling 300 yards up a hill covered with 88s, James Barkenmeir, 22, Hazelton, Ida., helped destroy a battery of nazi artillery near Brest. He was wounded later and evacuated to a U. S. army general hospital in England where he is now recovering.

His ward surgeon, First Lieut. George Mood, Charleston, S. C., said: "Private Berkenmeir is making excellent progress and will return to duty after further treatment.

As he was moving to the rear after smashing the nazi position a sniper shot Berkenmeir in the thigh. It was not a serious wound and a medical soldier dressed it immediately.

After being treated in an air station and at a field hospital, he was flown to a hospital in England where he received the purple heart.

Private Berkenmeir's wife, Etta Mae, and two children, Roger, 17 months and Leslie, seven months, reside in Hazelton. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Berkenmeir, Hazelton, and has a brother, Richard, a combat engineer. Before entering the army he was employed by the Morrison-Knudsen Construction company at Jerome, Ida.

MAGIC VALLEY DUCK HUNTING SHOWS IMPROVEMENT

ON THE SPORT FRONT

The most refreshing, although sometimes tear-jerking and heart-aching, moments that Ye Olde Sport Scrivener has is when some event sends him strolling down memory lane.

Fritz Howell of the Associated Press must also have had the satisfaction for if anyone ever did such strolling as he did in the following piece about the Army-Navy game that gent is unknown to the pudgy one.

And that's why this ancient word puddler is giving you that Howell stroll whole and entire, right now—

1890—Navy challenged; Army accepted; Navy won 24-0.

1891—Earthquake killed thousands in Japan; Army scored 32-16.

1892—Chicago opened world fair, and it was Navy, 12-4.

1893—Heavyweight champ Jim Corbett reported stale in training for Mitchell bout, as Navy repeated, 6-4.

1894-1898—No games, as war and navy departments cited dangers to life and limb.

1899—Admiral Dewey, of Manila fame, was made head of Navy, but it didn't help as Army won, 17-5.

1900—The century turned, and so did the middies—11-7.

1901-1904—The 1901 game was strictly an invitation affair for the fans, and scalpers got $40 to $50 per ducat. Army won four in a row, 11-5, 22-8, 40-5 and 11-0—the first Navy shutout.

1905—President Roosevelt (Teddy) engineered peace treaty in New Hampshire between Japan and Russia, and the cadets and middies played first tie, 6-6.

1906—Kentucky went dry—and Navy won, 10-0.

1907—Admiral Yamamoto of Japan expressed "eternal friendship" for U. S. as American fleet rounded horn for Pacific cruise; middies shut out Army again, 6-0.

1908—Everyone was singing "Take Me Out to the Ball Game"; Cadets won 6-4.

1909—No game, due to death of West Point player.

1910—Jack Johnson won heavyweight crown, and Navy won, 3-0, as Dalton made good on field goal after missing six in row.

1911—Naval aviation born as plane landed and took off from cruiser Pennsylvania, and again Dalton's placekick beat Army, 3-0.

1912—Parcel post inaugurated — and this time Brown booted two field goals as Middies won, 6-0.

1913—Income tax bill ratified—Brown kicked three field goals, but Army won, 22-9.

1914-15-16—War in Europe, and Army continued to roll, 20-0, 14-0 and 15-7, through "Oliphant era."

1917-1918—No games, World war.

1919—Prohibition ratified; King kicked two field goals, Navy winning, 6-0.

1920-21 — Skirts were shorter; Navy won by 7-0 each year.

1922-1933—"Able's Irish Rose" started on Broadway and Army launched its golden era, winning eight and tying two. The scores (Army first) 17-14, 0-0, 12-0, 10-3, 21-21, 14-0 (no games in '28 and '29 when teams tiffed about eligibility rules) 6-0, 17-7, 20-0 and 12-7.

1934—Bandit John Dillinger shot —and Cutter used Navy's favorite weapon, the field goal, to beat Army, 3-0.

1935—Jesse Owens broke three track records, and Army ran up biggest score since 1903 to win, 28-6.

1936—King Edward abdicated "for the woman I love," and Navy turned the tables, 7-0.

1937—"The Big Apple" was the dance craze, and 102,000 saw Army beat Navy, 6-0, at Philadelphia.

1938—Orson Wells' "Mars" broadcast upset nation, and Army upset Navy, 14-7.

1939-'43—"Good-Bye, Mr. Chips," was 1939's top play—but no better than Navy's, for the middies launched five-year winning streak, 10-0, 14-0, 14-6, 14-0 and 13-0.

1944—The Army and Navy are winning all over the world, but for a couple of hours Saturday the big question will be: "which is the better in Baltimore?"

And that's that for now, except: The managing editor wants to know for the Associated Press who was the No. 1 athlete of 1944, and has asked YOSS . . . who will tell the M.E., the A.P., and you, too, along about Sunday.

Runner Sees 9-Second Dash

FORT PIERCE, Fla., Nov. 30 (AP)—The 100-yard dash in nine seconds flat—considered an impossibility a few years back—will be achieved after the war by some well-trained youngster with lightning in his legs, says Lieut. (j.g.) Clyde Jeffrey, himself one of the world's fastest runners.

"Better coaching, technical advances and improved methods of training will make the nine-second mark possible," the Kansan declared. "I wouldn't be surprised if the 100 yards hasn't already been run in that time. However, to be official everything has to be perfect and there must not even be a wind stirring."

In 1940, Jeffrey sped 100 yards in the official time of 9.4 seconds, tieing the worlds' record held jointly by Jesse Owens and Frank Wykoff. His mark still awaits consideration by the International Athletic federation, inactive because of the war, but it is expected to be accorded official recognition when the international solons meet again.

FIVE UNDER PAR

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 30 (AP)—Amateurs and pros sloshed through rain-sodden fairways to sharpen their sights for the opening Friday of the 14th annual San Francisco open golf tournament, and Bruce Coltart, Absecon, N. J., came up with five-under-par 67.

Navy Minimizes Army's Long-Gain Threat by Hanging Onto Football

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Nov. 30—Andy Gustafson brings up a pertinent point in connection with the football battle of the century in Baltimore Saturday.

"Army has demonstrated beyond a reasonable doubt that it can score, all right," says line coach Gustafson, "but how many opportunities will it have against a Navy team that hangs onto the ball all day?" The old Pittsburgh fullback recalls the 1941 game, when the midshipmen were in possession for 13½ minutes of the final period.

Navy burns up time and the other side by moving four, six and eight yards at a crack, piles up first downs. The middies go the hard way.

Army cannot afford to muff opportunities for the long-gainers that have made the athletes from the Hudson highlands a point-a-minute outfit. The cadets will have none too many.

Through the herculean efforts of Babe Dimancheff, Purdue gained 177 yards on terra firma, the bulk of it through Navy's right side, but that doesn't mean one flank of the Annapolis forward wall has collapsed.

The Boilermaker total exceeded the combined ground mileage of the future admirals' seven previous opponents, four of whom wound up with a minus figure.

Whitmire the Whale

Navy's line will be the altitude of Pike's peak higher for Army than it was for Cecil Isbell's boys.

If Army elects to leave Navy's left side strictly alone its fleet and hard-hitting blockers and backs will find no welcoming committee on the other flank. Capt. Ben Chase, Gail Gilliam and Johnny Martin and their replacements and backer-ups are proven.

The principal reason rivals treat Navy's left side with such wholesome respect is the presence at tackle there of 5-foot-11, 215-pound Don Whitmire, the all-America from Alabama in his second year at Crabtown. Whitmire is a pillbox on defense and his cross-blocking on offense massacres guards. It was this seasoned young man from Decatur, Ala., who put Notre Dame on the bum.

"Every time I look at a picture I see Whitmire," asserts Herman Hickman, the Army line coach who is built along the same general lines and was all tackle himself at Tennessee. Lieut.-Col. Earl Blaik has frightful dreams centering around Whitmire.

You can speak of little Hal Hamberg all you please, but it is the 'Bama teammates, Whitmire and Bob Jenkins, that Army fears most.

"Jenkins is the most punishing back in the country," moans Coach Red Blaik.

Navy also has among others a blocking back named Dick Duden.

Between a would-be tackler and Dick Duden is no place to be caught.

Breaks May Decide Army-Navy Football Classic Saturday

By FRITZ HOWELL

BALTIMORE, Nov. 30 (AP) — The "breaks" and a couple of golden-toed substitutes, may play deciding roles Saturday when Army and Navy square off at noon, MWT, Municipal stadium in the campaign's top-drawer football game.

And if it does get down to a matter of breaks—or talented-toed substitutes — the West Point cadets must be given a slender edge.

For the ever-alert, hard-tackling army boys have created breaks galore, and taken advantage of them, in building up their point-a-minute clip over straight victims.

Army Best in Recoveries

For instance, in the eight games played by each to date—three against common foes—Army has lost the ball 12 times on fumbles but has picked up 14 fumbles by opponents, while Navy has turned the ball over to the enemy 16 times on muffs, and recovered only three opposition bobbles.

The cadets have intercepted 30 of 177 passes attempted against them while 60 were completed. Navy, on the other hand, has intercepted only 10 of 154, while allowing 51 to be completed.

At passing the edge is still Army's, the cadets completing 58 of 110 tosses for 1,078 yards and allowing only seven interceptions. Navy connected on 53 of 118 attempts, gaining 885 yards and having six intercepted.

Golden-Toed Subs

But the potency of Army's fine backs against the stalwart Navy line is still to be proved—as is Navy's scoring ability against the rugged cadet forward wall. And if they battle to a stalemate—that is where the two golden-toed substitutes come in.

They are the place-kicking specialists of the two teams—cadet Dick Walterhouse, Washtenaw, Mich., and midshipman Vic Finos, Everett, Mass. These two get into the game, as a rule, only when there's a point-after-touchdown to be booted, and they do a fine job of it.

Finos has attempted 30 conversions, and made 10 of 'em.

Walterhouse has tried 56, and connected for 44, which ties the national record made by Clyde LaForce of Tulsa in 1942, when LaForce needed 57 tries to get 44 between the uprights.

Jenkins to Play

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 30 (AP)—Bob Jenkins, the hard-driving Navy back who developed a foot infection Tuesday, missed practice again yesterday, but Comdr. Oscar Hagberg, head coach, said tonight he expected him back in uniform again today.

Hagberg added that he had hopes that Jenkins may see "some action" in the Army-Navy game Saturday in Baltimore.

Jenkins developed an infection in his left foot and was sent to the sick bay yesterday, where he remained overnight.

$200,000 OFFER

LONDON, Nov. 30 (AP)—The Daily Mail reported today that "a millionaire Californian racehorse owner" had offered $200,000 for the Aga Khan's famous stallion, Stardust, which is now at a stud farm in Ireland.

Warriors of ancient China and Peru were the first people to use nickel.

Pocatello Makes Bid for Annual State Tourney

POCATELLO, Nov. 30 (AP) — The Fifth District Athletic association has invited the Idaho State High School Athletic association to hold the 1945 state class A basketball turnament at Pocatello.

The district group suggested, also, that the host team participate in expense money to the extent of one meal for every game played.

The southeast district class B tournament will be held at Soda Springs the first week in March.

Sportsmen to Meet Friday

A special meeting, at which the Fourth District Affiliated Sportsmen's clubs will discuss the choosing of a fish and game commissioner to be appointed by the governor, will be held at 8 p. m. tomorrow in the probate courtroom, Priebe announced last night.

Priebe said that he expected representatives of all clubs in the 11 counties of the district to attend.

Several other matters probably will be taken up at the meeting.

ICE FISHING RULES

BOISE, Nov. 30—Now that winter has come to Idaho and put a halt in most places to usual fishing methods interest has revived in fishing through the ice. The fish and game department therefore calls attention today to regulations governing that sort of fishing.

It is lawful to fish through an opening cut or broken in the ice in only those waters open to fishing the year around, and Jimmy Smith lake in Custer county from October 1 to March 31; and Little Payette lake in Valley county which is open to fishing through the ice for whitefish and non-game fish only, the entire year. Fishing through the ice in other streams or lakes is not permitted.

Waters listed as open to the taking of fish during the entire year include the Snake river from the Stone bridge on the North Fork downstream to one mile above American Falls dam and from a point directly north of Massacre rocks downstream; Main Salmon river below the old wooden bridge about three miles above the mouth of Redfish lake creek to the mouth of the river; Middle Fork of Salmon river below the junction of Bear Valley creek and Marsh creek; Salmon reservoir in Twin Falls county; Murtaugh lake and canal outlets and inlets; Wilson lake in Jerome county and canal outlets and inlets; and Bruneau river from the mouth of the river to the mouth of Hot creek.

Fishing through the ice is NOT permitted in North Fork of Snake river or South Fork of Snake river below Anderson dam near Heise.

Concentration Still Lacking

Although sportsmen are bringing in ducks in increasing quantities, hunting of the water fowl has not near reached its peak, according to W. R. Priebe, president of the Fourth District Affiliated Sportsmen's clubs and an authority on the game.

Priebe said the sport is improving gradually.

"The ducks aren't concentrated yet," he stated. "They are flying high, mostly out of the range of the shot. They are still locating feeding grounds."

The duck authority said he counted 60,000 ducks during a trip along the Snake river this week.

Joe Doboran On Ute Squad

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov 30 (AP)—Two home games this week-end launch the new season for Utah university's basketball team, 1944 mythical national champions. Friday night the Utes meet Montana State college and Saturday play Walker, Kan., army air base.

The two contests will be the only tieup games for the Utes before they leave early in December for a trip that will take them to New York City to meet St. Johns in Madison Square Garden.

Coach Vadal Peterson has only Arnold Ferrin, Ogden, back from last year's title-winning club. He'll choose Ferrin's teammates from a host of freshmen or students deferred from military service for physical or scholastic reasons.

Three members of the Utah football squad began basketball practice this week. All from Idaho, they are Al Lehman, Pocatello; Joe Doboran, Glenn Ferry, and Dwight Winslow, Caldwell.

Two other Idaho youths are seeking places on the Utah team. They are Murray Satterfield, Aberdeen, and George Kell, Pocatello.

Utah Puts Two On All-Stars

DENVER, Nov. 30 (AP)—Utah university won two places on the all-conference football team chosen for the Associated Press by Big Seven coaches and Intermountain sports writers.

Colorado university, which won the title with a sailor-marine combination, captured six places, while Denver university took three.

The teams:

First team—ends, Dave Anderson, Colorado, and Wayne Flanigan, Denver; tackles, Tom Broyles, Colorado, and Jack Okland, Utah; guards, Tom Panos, Utah, and John Fabling, Colorado; center, Jim Oliver, Colorado; quarterback, Lemar Dykstra, Colorado; halfbacks, Bob West, Colorado, and John Karamiglos, Denver; fullback, John Adams, Denver.

Second team—ends, Lisco, Colorado, and Putnik, Utah State; tackles, Repich, Utah, and Miller, Denver; guards, Feld, Denver, and Bowman, Utah; center, Diner, Denver; quarterback, Crookston, Utah State; halfbacks, Hazelhurst, Denver, and Ficklin, Utah; fullback, Worden, Colorado.

Zivic Kayoes Mexican Boxer

DALLAS, Tex., Nov. 30 (AP) — Fritzie Zivic, 156, Pittsburgh, former world champion now stationed at Camp Normoyle, San Antonio, dropped Manuel Villa, 151, Mexico City, with a sudden right to the jaw after two minutes and 20 seconds of the sixth round of a scheduled 10-round main event here last night to retain his Texas middleweight boxing title.

Zivic weighed in at 156 pounds. Villa, who is Texas welterweight champion but did not have his title at stake, tipped the scales at 151.

Bowlden's Back, so All's Well in Hailey Basketball

SPORTS EDITOR'S NOTE: Nine teams played in district class B basketball tournament at Wendell last March. They were Heyburn, the eventual winner; Glenns Ferry, runner-up; Shoshone, Declo, Hazelton, Eden, Hagerman, Wendell and Hailey. What has the war and graduation done to these fine quintets? Will they play in this season's district? These are some of the questions for which you might find an answer in this third of a series of articles about them.

HAILEY, Nov. 30—Coach Doryl Martindale has Scott Bowlden back and everything goes well along the Wood river in a basketball way. That's the way they feel at Hailey high school.

This six foot youth is quite a basketball player, as Hailey's rivals all agree, and so long as he is still around, Coach Martindale has a foundation upon which to build a good quintet.

Not only is Scott back, but so is his cousin, Leo Bowlden, from last year's first team that won the Wood river sub-district, but also four of the five players that made up the second five. They are Larry Parke, guard; Jimmy Griffith, guard and forward; Lloyd Walker, guard, and Melvin Drexler, a southpaw shooting five-foot-11-incher. Only Ray Smith will be missing, the youngster being ticketed to go to the army Friday.

Welch Promising

However Martindale isn't so sure that these four athletes, with the two Bowldens, will make up his first-string quintet. There's Desmond Welch, a senior who never played high school basketball that has moved back from Ogden. He was one of the mainstays of one of the fine grade school aggregations that Read Gorring developed at Ketchum. Another Gorring-trained lad with a chance is Rex Watson, a sophomore.

Two sophomores who also received their first basketball at Ketchum are also well-liked by the Hailey coach. They are Ray Nelson and Ronald Smith. Then there are Bob Rice and Louis Hirschman, freshman, who may make the squad.

Sees Stronger Team

Martindale believes his team will be stronger than a year ago. The candidates are fairly tall with Scott Bowlden, Walker and Drexler in the six-foot class. Griffith, Welch and Watson ascend to five-10, while Parke is five-seven and Leo Bowlden two inches taller.

Hailey will open its season by playing Fairfield on the local floor Dec. 9. The remaining games are:

Dec. 15—Shoshone, there.
Dec. 19—Fairfield, there.
Dec. 22—Paul, here.
Jan. 5—Carey, here.
Jan. 12—Dietrich, there.
Jan. 16—Bellevue, there.
Jan. 19—Richfield, there.
Jan. 26—Carey, there.
Feb. 2—Richfield, here.
Feb. 6—Shoshone, here.
Feb. 13—Bellevue, here.
Feb. 16—Dietrich, here.

Elimination Pin Tournament Will Open Next Week

An elimination tournament, which is expected to attract the top bowlers in this area, will get underway at the Bowladrome next week with Fred Stone, the city's well known sport promoter, in charge.

The tournament will run for four weeks with the high average bowlers seeded to assure their meeting later in the tournament if they survive.

Also planned is a women's elimination tournament.

The events will be staged on Monday and Friday nights and will be handicap affairs.

Alamo Bowl Tilt New Year's Day

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Nov. 30 (AP)—Birth of another new year's football game was announced here today.

It will be known as the Alamo bowl—a name taken from an old Spanish mission famous in Texas history.

Carl C. Krueger, chairman of the San Antonio Chamber of Commerce, made the announcement and mentioned the University of Texas, Texas A. and M., University of Oklahoma, Louisiana State, Rise, Tulane and Mississippi State as teams under consideration for the initial game.

Schmidt Named Commissioner

PASADENA, Nov. 30 (AP)—Victor O. Schmidt yesterday was appointed commissioner of athletics for the Pacific coast conference for 1945, as conference officials wound up a three-day session.

Schmidt, assistant to the late Edwin Atherton, had been filling the post since the commissioner's death early this fall. The conference delegates voted to hire an assistant to aid the new commissioner.

The conference also lifted the ban against athletes or teams traveling to the east and midwest, raising the possibility that conference teams may resume intersectional grid play next season. Delegates saw travel conditions as improving.

The action paves the way for resumption of the southern California-Notre Dame series, as well as other intersectional clashes. The Trojans have tentative dates with Tulane and Texas.

Prof. R. H. Nottelmann of the University of Washington was elected president of the conference. He succeeds Prof. John Olmstead of UCLA.

Haegg Coming For AAU Meet

NEW YORK, Nov. 30 (AP)—Impetus was added to the 1945 indoor track season today with the announcement that Gunder Haegg, one of Sweden's two great middle distance runners, and Hakon Lidman, hurdler, had accepted an invitation of the Amateur Athletic union to compete in this country.

Dan Ferris, secretary of the AAU, said there were a few things to be ironed out such as transportation and approval of the international federation for the athletes to compete for more than 21 days but he expected approval within a few days.

A cable from Stockholm said Haegg would correspond for the Idrottisbladet as recompense for the salary he will lose. The Swedish army also had released Haegg from three months of military duty.

Although it was understood here the two runners would arrive in this country late in December, later word from Sweden was that Haegg would not leave before Jan. 2 or 3 because he wants to spend the week between Christmas and New Year's day at a Valadelen mountain resort where he usually does his spring training. Haegg and Lidman are scheduled to run in various indoor meets starting the latter part of January.

Haegg, who toured the United States in the summer of 1942, holds the world's two-mile record of 8:42.8 and the 1,500-meter mark of 3:43.

FIANCEE THRILLED

OAKLAND, Calif., Nov. 30 (AP)—The blonde young fiancee of Gunder Haegg exclaimed "Oh, I'm delighted" when she was told today that the great Swedish runner would visit the United States between Christmas and New Year's.

"We'll probably be married," said Dorothy Nortier, whose engagement to the Swedish distance star was announced after his last visit to this country.

North Idaho Deer Hunt Time Extended

BOISE, Nov. 30 (AP)—Deer hunting in Idaho's northern panhandle country will continue until Dec. 15. The state fish and game department extended the season beyond today's original limit, after A. L. Trade of Coeur d'Alene, commission member, said hunting conditions have been unfavorable.

YOU GOTTA THINK QUICK

By Stanley Paley

Copyright, 1944, NEA Service, Inc.

XXVII

It had been drizzling all evening, but now the rain came down so hard on the skylight that it drowned out the radio. I stretched out my arm, turned the volume up a little, and once again the exciting tones of Strauss's Don Quixote filled the room.

The divan I was lying on was directly beneath the skylight and I kept staring at the pattern made by the streams running down the panes. I'd thought about this kind of weather when Mickey had rented the place, and now our divergent theories were being put to the test. I'd declared that the whole works would leak at the first sign of rain, and she's maintained that it would be perfectly all right. We'd argued the point and I'd finally asked her what she needed to live in an artist's studio apartment for if she wasn't an artist. Pointing to some of the paintings that the previous tenant had left in lieu of rent she'd replied that he wasn't an artist either. And that had settled the point. For all her demure looks, Mickey was quick on the trigger.

So far the rain hadn't come through the skylight and my moment of triumph was slow in materializing. After a while I got tired of the sagging divan and stretched out on the rug before the fire. As the last strains of the tone poem died down, I could hear the clatter of dishes in the kitchen.

"Mickey," I called, "why don't you quit making that racket and come and entertain papa?"

She came over to the fireplace still drying her hands, and knelt down on the rug beside me.

"Because the dishes won't do themselves," she said softly, "and besides papa is such good company for himself that he doesn't need entertaining."

"A fine way to talk to a guest!"

"Guest my eye! You've practically become a boarder."

She was right. I was beginning to take these home cooked dinners for granted. So what? She enjoyed them as much as I did.

"You should feel flattered," I said, "that I make some pretense at relishing those unholy messes you concoct."

For a moment this got her really mad. Then she saw the grin on my face and picked up the cue. She assumed the expression of a martyr.

"God!" she exclaimed, "what have I done to deserve this? Working my fingers to the bone! Bending over a hot stove all day!"

It was fun, lying there and kidding back and forth. She was the first girl I'd ever known that I could really talk to. Who could take it and also dish it out.

As the rain beat down with renewed intensity, we both glanced at the skylight.

"Sorry to disappoint you, Leo. It seem awfully dry in here."

"Okay, you win, Smartypants! But don't look so smug."

* * *

We were toasting marshmallows half an hour later, when the phone rang. I grabbed her arm as she rose to answer.

"If it's Boggio, don't tell him I'm here."

The phone was at the other end of the room and I couldn't help overhearing the conversation. It wasn't Boggio but Don.

There was a worried look on Mickey's face when she stretched out again.

"This working late at night is getting to be a habit. You don't think he's kidding me?"

"No," I said. "I think he's on the level. That's the kind of a job it is. Good pay and long hours."

She wrinkled her forehead. "That's another thing that's been bothering me. Seventy-five dollars a week for driving a car. It's ridiculous. Why should a man want to pay that kind of money for a chauffeur?"

"It's quite simple. Boggio's got all the dough he wants, and he values his life highly. Don is an excellent driver and so he's willing to pay."

"It still isn't worth seventy-five dollars!"

I was somewhat disturbed as she lapsed into silence again. Each time Boggio was mentioned we began treading on dangerous ground. Once she'd asked me what business he was in and I'd been pretty vague. Holding companies, I'd said. A variety of interests. All very much involved. Then I'd changed the subject.

She paused as she was about to place another marshmallow on the fork and looked at me.

"Leo," she said, "will you promise to tell me the truth if I ask you a very direct question?"

My heart beat a little faster. This kind of talk could turn out to be most embarrassing. I attempted to evade the issue.

"What is this?" I kidded. "The third degree?"

"Please, Leo."

There was no way out of it, so I tried to look indifferent.

"All right! What is it?"

"It's something I've been meaning to ask you for a long time—ever since Don got this job. You're a good friend of Mr. Boggio's, aren't you?"

"I suppose so."

This was getting really bad.

"Good enough to have been able to ask him to hire Don," she continued.

"Well?"

It looked as if a lot of things I didn't want discussed were going to be dragged out.

"—so it occurred to me that you might have arranged to pad his salary and pay the difference out of your own pocket. It's the kind of thing you would do and I wouldn't like it at all."

I could have kissed her I was so relieved.

"It's a nice thought," I said, "and I hope this halo you've put over my head looks becoming. But you're mistaken. Cross my heart!"

She looked at me, smiling.

"I'm glad, Leo."

And that seemed to close the matter.

RACE FOR SHERIFF CLOGS STATE VOTE

MILAN, Mo., Nov. 30 (AP)—Sullivan county's bitter three-week dispute over 84 uncounted absentee ballots in the Nov. 7 election, which holds a threat of electoral college complications unless settled, reached the courts with filing of a mandamus suit seeking to command the canvassers to quit arguing and count the vote.

The argument, which hinges around a sheriff's race in which Martin Franklin, Democrat, leads L. D. Green, Republican, by eight votes, is holding up the officall canvass of Missouri's 1,500,000 votes and may force postponement of the meeting Dec. 18 of Missouri's Democratic electors to certify the state's vote to the electoral college in Washington.

Floyd Cleeton, apparently successful Democratic candidate for a county judgeship, filed a writ of mandamus asking certification of the vote to pave the way for obtaining his election certificate. Judge Green issued an alternative writ directing the canvassers to "proceed with their duties" or show cause at a Dec. 8 hearing why they should not do so.

Lt. Ryan Leading Nisei in Combat

WITH THE SEVENTH ARMY IN FRANCE—Second Lieut. Joseph C. Ryan, 138 Walnut street, Twin Falls, Ida., who has been promoted to the rank of first lieutenant, is with a rifle company of the 442nd Japanese-American combat team.

The combat team to which he is assigned is that unique military organization whose entire enlisted personnel is composed of American citizens of Japanese ancestry who volunteered from the mainland of the United States and the territory of Hawaii to fight their country's enemies. They distinguished themselves particularly in the allied drive north of Rome to Leghorn and Pisa with the fifth army and are currently fighting with the American seventh army as it thrusts into the Vosges mountains of northeastern France.

Entered From College

Lieutenant Ryan was a senior at the University of Idaho, majoring in American history, when he was called into the service in April, 1943. An R.O.T.C. participant for four years at the university, he attended the infantry school and was commissioned a second lieutenant after completing his work there in January, 1944.

Holder of the combat infantryman's badge for exemplary conduct under fire, he also wears the purple heart medal for wounds sustained during the Italian campaign.

Here's a Sample

Typical of his work in this instance which took place last July 4, near Castellina, Italy. Without rest for 24 hours, he organized and led his platoon several miles over rough mountain terrain to the battalion communications point. There he organized a perfect system of carrying parties to supply the heavy weapons company farther ahead. Leaving his platoon in charge of a sergeant, he moved ahead to other duties.

Though tired and weary, he went forward and established an observation post on his battalion's right flank and manned it throughout the day. He later volunteered and guided a platoon which secured an unprotected flank. He then returned to his OP and remained there for the next two days, while being subjected to constant enemy mortar and small arms fire. On the night of the sixth, he moved forward with the attack and set up an OP on the objective. On the seventh, he directed his platoon so that they were able to inflict serious damage on the enemy.

VACCINE USE FOR COLD CONDEMNED

CHICAGO, Nov. 30 (AP)—Vaccines popularly supposed to prevent or cure the common cold were condemned today as having no proved value in a report published in the Journal of the American Medical association.

The joint report by the AMA councils on pharmacy and chemistry, and industrial health, included vaccines administered hypodermically, by swallowing capsules (oral vaccines), and by local spraying of the upper respiratory tract.

"Decisive evidence of the value of any vaccine is not forthcoming, and the weight of careful studies indicates none of the vaccines now available when administered by the routes advised have proved value," the report said.

"Vaccines for colds can not be recommended for routine administration to industrial groups or to individuals. At present any attempt to prevent colds by the use of vaccines must be recognized as purely experimental and any proposal to administer such a vaccine, if given at all, should take this into consideration."

Hansen Farmer's Steers Bring Top

Ending the day on a total of "about 1,000 head of cattle," John P. Hawes, co-manager of the Twin Falls Livestock Commission com*pany, reported a day's marget that* was "steady all the way through all classes."

The last head of cattle was "run through the ring at approximately 11:30 p. m." he said.

Top steer prices went to G. D. Crockett, Hansen, who was paid $11.95 for a load.

Hawes said weaner calves "brought between $11 and $12 and were steady."

Yearling heifers, sold by Ray Blick, Three Creek, went at $11.55 for tops in that division, while grass fat yearlings brought a high of $11.30 to Ray Clark, also of Three Creek. A load of heavy heifers was sold by L. P. Larsen, Hansen, at $11.

Prices of feeder cows ranged from $7 to $8.25.

Hawes announced that the Dec. 27 sale will be the last one conducted by the present owners. Thereafter the Callen Brothers, Jerome, will operate the company.
